100 INTRODUCTION

This Resource Family Background Assessment Guide is intended to be the sole guide for Resource Family Approval (RFA) background check procedures. For purposes of this guide, “reviewing agency” refers to the entity conducting the background checks resulting from a Resource Family application. In addition to counties and CDSS, this document may be used as a guide for an agency conducting background checks in accordance with federal IV-E standards, including tribes and counties conducting background checks on behalf of a tribe. Reviewing agencies should not consult the state’s Caregiver Background Check Bureau Evaluator Manual.

The content of this guide can also be found in the applicable statutory and written directive authority. See Welfare and Institutions Code (W&IC) sections 16519.5, et seq. and the Resource Family Approval Written Directives.

The criminal record background check process is intended to ensure that applicants, as well as persons residing or regularly present in the home, do not present a threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. An individual’s criminal history may be one factor in determining whether a person is of good character. For example, it may indicate a history of violent or dishonest conduct or a history of substance or alcohol abuse.

The background check process provides individuals with criminal history an opportunity to prove that they are rehabilitated and of present good character. Thus, if a person has a criminal conviction or a history of criminal conduct such as an arrest that did not result in a conviction, the reviewing agency must determine whether or not the person presents a potential health and safety risk to a child or nonminor dependent.

It is important to note that the initial burden of proof requires the agency to prove the criminal conviction or conduct. The agency should obtain arrest and court records to determine the true nature of the criminal conviction or conduct. Unless an individual qualifies for the simplified exemption process, once the conviction is proven, the individual must demonstrate he or she is rehabilitated and of present good character necessary to safely care for children or nonminor dependents in out of home care.

a. Senate Bill (SB) 213

Effective 1/1/18, SB 213 made significant amendments to the criminal record exemption decision standards and processes as specified at Health and Safety Code 1522(g). For Resource Family applicants and all adults residing or regularly present in the home, the simplified exemption process is available, at the reviewing agency’s discretion, for all exemptible convictions that do not meet the standard exemption criteria specified in Section 119, Exemptions. A simplified criminal record exemption process means that an exemption shall be granted based solely on the live scan fingerprint check and/or any written (RFA 01B) or verbal self-disclosures if the criminal history meets specified criteria. However, notwithstanding the fact that an individual qualifies for the simplified criminal record exemption process, a reviewing agency may choose to require the individual to request an exemption and complete the full exemption process if there are health and safety concerns (see section 119, Exemptions, for additional details).

b. RFA Background Check Components

RFA applicants and adults residing or regularly present in the applicant's or resource family's home are the only individuals who shall be subject to an RFA background check. The RFA background check process consists of uniform components to ensure all foster care providers are evaluated by the same standard. The RFA background check components are limited by law to the following:

1. Live scan fingerprint check results (including state and federal criminal history information and CACI);
2. Megan's Law check;
3. LIS/AARS check;
4. DMV check (only for adults who may frequently transport a child or nonminor dependent); and
5. Resource Family Criminal Record Statement (RFA 01B)

c. Emergency (Temporary) Placement

This guide DOES NOT APPLY TO EMERGENCY PLACEMENTS or affect a county's ability to make a placement. This guide is only to be used for the background check process required for RFA approval, which is separate from placement decisions. Please see the Appendix for information related to Emergency Placement protocol.

101 CRIMINAL RECORD CLEARANCE AND EXEMPTION REVIEW

The Department shall provide ongoing oversight of a County's operations related to the Resource Family Approval Program. The Department may, without prior notice, inspect, review, and monitor implementation of the program in a county, including all activities, procedures, records, and forms related to the program.

The Department shall review a random sample of Resource Families in a County for compliance with applicable laws and the Written Directives, which may include a home environment visit. The Department's review shall occur on an annual basis or more often if the Department becomes aware that a County is experiencing a disproportionate number of complaints against individual Resource Families.

Reviewing agencies must record and retain criminal clearance and exemption information. This information should be made available to the Department during its annual review or upon request. It is the agency's responsibility to maintain a log of all background check information including all granted, denied, rescinded, or transferred exemptions. Counties have the option of utilizing the Quarterly County Exemption Report form (LIC 9210) or another template, which includes the following information:

- The name of the county.
- The year of the tracking log.
- The person's name.
- The Resource Family name and RF ID number, if applicable.
- The person's date of birth.

- The appropriate reporting source: Department of Justice (DOJ), Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), self-reported on RFA 01B (Self), or transferred from another approval/licensing agency (Transfer/Conversion).
- Type of exemption. Use the following legend: Standard (ST), Simplified (SM), Conditional (C), Individual (I), Non-Exemptible (N), Denied (D), Transferred (T), or Conversion (CO).
- The year of conviction(s), the type of conviction [Misdemeanor (M) or Felony (F)], and the criminal violation code number and title identified on the rap sheet or conviction records. Include all convictions, both self-disclosed and from the rap sheet, and list one crime on each line.

102 CRIMINAL RECORD CLEARANCE

Applicants and individuals residing or regularly present in a resource family home, and not exempted pursuant to Health and Safety Code (H&SC) section 1522(b), must submit fingerprints to the Department of Justice for the purposes of a background check of state and federal summary criminal record information. The Request for Live Scan Service \(BCIA 8016\) form must be completed using the RFA applicant type (RESRCE FAM PER 16519 WI). An individual with no criminal convictions, serious arrests, or substantiated allegations of child abuse or severe neglect (CACI hits) is entitled to a clearance. An individual who has been convicted of a crime, other than a minor traffic violation or a specific marijuana-related conviction, cannot obtain Resource Family approval, reside or be regularly present in a resource family home unless granted a criminal record exemption by the reviewing agency. Reviewing agencies shall evaluate an individual's criminal record, if any, to determine if he/she poses a risk or threat to the health, safety, and well-being of a child in out of home care.

Applicants and adults residing or regularly present in the home at the time of application must have a criminal record clearance or a criminal record exemption (see section 119, Exemptions) prior to approval.

Subsequent to approval, any new adults who may reside or be regularly present in the resource family home must submit fingerprints and obtain a clearance or exemption prior to initial presence in the home.

103 CRIMINAL RECORD STATEMENT (RFA 01B)

Prior to, or at the time of, the person submitting fingerprints, the individual must complete and sign a Resource Family Criminal Record Statement (RFA 01B) under penalty of perjury. The requirement to sign the statement under penalty of perjury is an important feature of this form, because it informs the individual that it may be used as evidence by the reviewing agency or department in an administrative action if the person provides false or misleading statements in the RFA 01B. This statement requires the person to disclose all prior convictions and specified arrests. Convictions and conduct associated with certain marijuana convictions must be disregarded, as covered by the Marijuana Reform Act of 1977 (H&SC sections 11361.5 and 11361.7).

If the person discloses a conviction, with the exception of infractions and certain minor marijuana offenses over 2 years old (see section 110, Marijuana-Related Convictions), he or she needs an exemption. The disclosed convictions must be compared with the convictions on the person's rap sheet. Discrepancies and omissions must be factored into the exemption decision (see section 119, Exemptions).

In cases where the person discloses convictions either verbally or on the RFA 01B and the convictions either do not appear on his/her rap sheet or a clearance is received, the reviewing agency must use the self-disclosure in lieu of or in addition to the rap sheet. Treat the disclosure the same as a subsequent conviction (see section 123, Arrest and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption). The person may be subject to removal (see section 125, Administrative Actions). However, the reviewing agency must obtain proof of any conviction, e.g. certified court documents, prior to issuing a Notice of Action (NOA) based on the self-disclosure.

Individuals should not be required or asked to resubmit the RFA 01B if they initially omitted pertinent information or disclosed information that did not actually result in an arrest or conviction (e.g. a detention). If there is an error or omission on the RFA 01B, the reviewing agency should document any conversations regarding the inconsistencies. Inconsistencies between the RFA 01B and live scan results may be indicative of dishonesty/minimization or may be the result of an honest mistake or failure to recall. The reviewing agency shall evaluate each individual's responses on a case-by-case basis.

The RFA 01B form may be downloaded from the RFA website and copied: RFA Forms.

104 ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION AND LICENSING DATABASES

Reviewing agencies must check prior licensing, criminal record exemption, and resource family approval history of each applicant and all adults residing or regularly present in the home as part of the background check process. The data systems that must be checked include the Licensing Information System (LIS), Administrative Action Records System (AARS), and RFA Notice of Action (NOA) Database. The Community Care Licensing (CCL) Division established the LIS/AARS Check Unit (LLCU) to assist in conducting checks for counties and Foster Family Agencies (FFAs). This unit will perform all LIS checks on behalf of all 58 counties, and the counties will conduct their own AARS and NOA Database checks. However, the LLCU will conduct LIS, AARS, and NOA Database checks on behalf of the Foster Family Agencies (FFAs) for RFA. For RFA applicants through FFAs only: Although CBCB conducts background checks on behalf of FFA's RFA applicants, CBCB does not conduct the database checks. The LLCU will conduct the database checks for FFA applicants.

If the individual is identified as having been involved in an administrative action, the worker will need to obtain more information about the action to assess how that prior action affects their current case. The databases contain information regarding the action and documents including, but not limited to, Exclusion Orders, Position Statements, Accusations or Statements of Issue, Decision and Orders, Stipulated settlement agreements (i.e., Stipulations), and RFA NOAs. The databases will provide information about actions that have occurred at any point in the past, even if the individual did not appeal or file a notice of defense or has been subsequently allowed to become licensed, approved, placed on the TrustLine or Home Care Aid registry, return to work, or be present in a facility or home. The databases contain limited information about pending actions; therefore, you may need to contact the Department's Legal Division to obtain additional information. In addition, it is important to note that the databases do not contain records regarding Foster Family Agency (FFA) de-certifications taken by the FFA on its own without Department involvement. A reviewing agency may obtain information regarding FFA-only de-certifications by contacting the FFA directly.

A reviewing agency may cease any further review of an application when an individual has had a previous application denial within the preceding year, or when the individual has had a previous rescission, revocation, exemption denial, or exemption rescission by the Department or a County within the preceding two years. However, the reviewing agency may continue to review an application if it has determined that the reasons for the previous denial, rescission, or revocation were due to circumstances or conditions which have either been corrected or that no longer exist. If an individual was previously excluded from any resource family home, a registry, or any facility licensed by the Department, the reviewing agency shall cease review of the individual's application unless the excluded individual has been reinstated by the Department pursuant to Government Code Section 11522 and Health and Safety Code section 1558(h) [See Welf. and Inst. Code section 16519.5(c)(7).] The cessation of review shall not constitute a denial of the application for purposes of this section or any other law. No due process is required and no NOA is necessary, as the authority to cease processing results from the prior administrative action and due process was provided at that time.

Resources and tutorials on how to read LIS reports and how to conduct AARS checks are available on the Department's website:

<http://www.cdss.ca.gov/inforesources/Childrens-Residential/Resources-for-Providers/LIS-LAARS-Check-Unit>

a. Administrative Action Records System (AARS) and Notice of Action (NOA) Database

Resource Family approval requires a check for prior Resource Family and licensing-related administrative actions contained in the AARS database maintained by the Department. The database is also used to track NOAs denying or rescinding approval, denying or rescinding an exemption, or exclusion orders. Documentation of this check shall be recorded on the RFA 02 Resource Family Background Checklist.

Each County has been provided access information to AARS, and the designated County system administrator should be contacted for assistance in accessing the system. Detailed instructions about the databases can be found in the User Manual contained within AARS.

(1) Administrative Action Status

If a match is obtained, the system will indicate the current status for each administrative action as follows:

- (A) AA – Excluded: A Decision and Order, Stipulation, or exclusion order that was not appealed has been entered to exclude an individual from a facility or resource family;
- (B) AA – Revoked, Rescinded or Denied: A Decision and Order, Stipulation or other final decision has been entered to deny or revoke an exemption, license, certificate, registration or to deny or rescind a resource family approval;
- (C) AA – Probation: A Decision and Order or Stipulation or other final order has been entered that allows the individual to be licensed, work in one or more facilities, or to be approved as a resource family, subject to certain conditions;

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

- (D) AA – Filed (Pending): A Statement of Issues to deny an application for licensure, approval or certification or an Accusation to revoke a license or certificate, rescind an approval or exclude an individual has been served on the individual, but no final action on the case has been taken;
- (E) AA – Closed: The case has been closed without a revocation, rescission, denial, or exclusion action after issuance of the Statement of Issues or Accusation or after an RFA NOA has been rescinded.

NOTE: The above administrative action code descriptions may not have been updated in the databases.

If the legal documents are not on AARS, please send an email request for the documents to be retrieved from archives, stating the individual's name and Legal case number, to the CDSS Legal Division at LAARS-CCL@dss.ca.gov.

(2) AARS/NOA Document Review and Legal Effect

A Decision and Order or a Stipulation, Waiver and Order are binding legal documents. In addition, an NOA or exclusion order that was not appealed constitutes a final decision or order. The reviewing agency should discuss the documents with their consulting attorney before making a decision to determine options available to the county.

If it is determined that the individual is under a presently enforceable exclusion order preventing his/her presence in a licensed facility or approved home, the Resource Family should be immediately notified that the individual cannot be present in the home. If there is any indication or suspicion that the individual is or will be residing or regularly present in the home, it may be necessary for the reviewing agency to conduct a case management visit to verify that the individual is not present. A copy of the Decision and Order or exclusion order may be provided to the Resource Family.

b. Licensing Information System (LIS)

Prior licensing history and criminal record exemption denial or rescission actions are contained in the Licensing Information System (LIS) maintained by the Department. Documentation of this check shall be recorded on the RFA 02 Resource Family Background Checklist. Departmental oversight and review include verification of all background check components, including the Licensing and administrative action databases. Documentation of these database checks will help verify compliance during the Department's review.

The requesting reviewing agency must complete the RFA Background Check Assessment: LIS & AARS Request Form for each applicant and all adults residing or regularly present in the home of an applicant or Resource Family. The form, password encrypted if containing social security numbers, must include the name (required), date of birth (required), social security number (if available), agency name, and approval worker contact information for all applicants. To ensure efficiency, it is recommended that counties include multiple checks on a single form and submit on a weekly basis. Once completed, the form must be securely emailed to the LLCU at CCLLISLAARSChecks@dss.ca.gov. Please ensure the form is completed correctly and includes all required information. The form may be obtained by accessing the "Resource Family Approval Background Check Assessment" form at:

<http://www.cdss.ca.gov/inforesources/Childrens-Residential/Resources-for-Providers/LIS-LAARS-Check-Unit>

Each reviewing agency is requested to identify and provide LLCU with the name of their single point of contact (SPOC) designated to submit LIS/AARS check requests on behalf of the agency. The LLCU will provide the results of the LIS checks to the identified designee. For LIS checks completed with no results, the LLCU will identify “none” on the form, which should be noted on the Resource Family Background Checklist form \(RFA 02\). It is the LLCU’s goal to respond within fifteen (15) business days of receiving a request.

If a reviewing agency has any questions or wishes to follow up on a request, their SPOC may contact LLCU, Statewide Children’s Residential Program Office, at (916) 651-7140 or by email at CCLLISLAARSChecks@dss.ca.gov.

NOTE: If there are questions regarding the results of the LIS check, please contact the regional office for additional information.

105 NAME SEARCH

California Penal Code (PC) section 11105.7 allows the Department of Justice (DOJ) to conduct a non-fingerprint based name check under certain circumstances. A name search is an alternate type of criminal history inquiry that is conducted for individuals whose:

- Live scan fingerprints have been rejected twice due to poor fingerprint image quality; or
- Medical condition prevents the submission of fingerprints (e.g., no fingers, hands are atrophied to the point of being unable to submit to a fingerprint roll); or
- Physical disability prevents them from providing any fingerprint images at all (i.e., dual amputees).

a. Name Search for Rejected Fingerprints

The Department of Justice Website:

Fingerprint images can be rejected by the DOJ and/or the FBI.

Fingerprints that are rejected twice by the DOJ due to poor print quality will automatically be processed by the DOJ using the applicant’s name to check the criminal history database for any existing criminal history.

If an individual’s fingerprints are rejected twice by the FBI due to poor print quality, the form BCIA 8020, REQUEST FOR APPLICANT NAME CHECK BY THE FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION \(FBI\) must be submitted to the DOJ’s FBI Response Unit by the reviewing agency, to request a name check of the FBI national criminal history database. The FBI name check request must be received by the DOJ within 75 calendar days of the second rejection notice or the individual will need to be reprinted. This allows the DOJ to process the request for the FBI name check and forward it to the FBI within the required 90 days. After 90 days, the FBI deletes all fingerprint background check transactions and considers the FBI background check request complete. The individual must be fingerprinted again, which re-starts the FBI fingerprint background check process.

Federal Bureau of Investigation:

If an individual's fingerprints are rejected twice by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the following steps must be taken to initiate a Federal Bureau of Investigation name check.

See form BCIA 8020 on the Department of Justice website at:
<https://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/forms>.

Requests must be sent to:
Department of Justice
Bureau of Criminal Information & Analysis (BCIA)
FBI Response Unit
P.O. Box 903417
Sacramento, CA 94203-4170
Fax: (916) 227-3820
Email: FBI.ResponseUnit@doj.ca.gov

b. Name Search for Illegible or No Fingerprints

When an individual cannot submit fingerprints for medical reasons (e.g., no fingers, hands are atrophied to the point of being unable to submit to a fingerprint roll), the Department of Justice (DOJ) requires that prints be rejected twice before DOJ will complete a non-fingerprint based name check.

The FD-258 fingerprint card must have impressions for each fingerprint box on the card. If a finger cannot be used, a knuckle smudge will suffice, but the fingerprint card must have the appropriate knuckle smudge for every corresponding finger space on the card. When a fingerprint card is rejected due to poor quality prints, a second fingerprint card will be required. If the fingerprint card is rejected a second time, DOJ will automatically conduct a name check for the California criminal background check. For an FBI name check, complete a BCIA 8020, Request for Applicant Name Check By the FBI form, and submit it within 75 days from the second rejection notice.

c. Name Search for Persons Unable to Submit Prints at All

NOTE: This option is not available to individuals simply based on medical issues where the individual feels he or she is unable to complete sections (a) or (b) above. This option is limited to individuals who do not have the physical capability to complete the other options, e.g. a dual amputee.

Under normal circumstances, a person's fingerprints must be rejected twice due to poor quality before DOJ will conduct a name check. However, there are individuals, such as dual amputees, who are physically incapable of providing any images at all, legible or not. For those specific individuals, DOJ has implemented a process to conduct a name check upon receipt of verification of the person's inability to provide fingerprints.

If an individual is unable to submit any fingerprints, the reviewing agency will complete the Agency Information section of the BCIA 9010 REQUEST FOR DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE NAME CHECK and provide to the person. This form may be used only when the person cannot provide any fingerprints at all. After completing all the requested information on the form, the individual must take the form to a law enforcement agency. The law enforcement official will verify that the individual cannot be fingerprinted and complete the Law Enforcement Verification section on the form. Failure to have a law enforcement official verify the individual's inability to provide fingerprint images will result in the DOJ's denial of the request.

See form BCIA 9010 on the Department of Justice website at:
<https://oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/forms>.

Requests must be sent to:
California Department of Justice
Bureau of Criminal Information and Analysis
Applicant Program
P.O. Box 903417
Sacramento, CA 94203-4170
Email: AppAgencyquestions@doj.ca.gov

106 FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI)

Welfare and Institutions Code (W&IC) section 16519.5 requires that all individuals, subject to a criminal record review, obtain a Federal Bureau of Investigation clearance in addition to the California clearance obtained through the Department of Justice. If the Federal Bureau of Investigation rap sheet contains a conviction that occurred in a state other than California or outside of California's jurisdiction (e.g. federal or military), the reviewing agency, in consultation with its counsel/legal department, must evaluate the facts and circumstances to determine if there would have been a conviction if the crime had been committed in California. The reviewing agency must process an out-of-state conviction as it would an initial or subsequent conviction, as applicable (see section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption).

If an individual was initially cleared to reside or be regularly present in a resource family home and the reviewing agency receives subsequent information of undisclosed convictions, the individual must request an exemption as outlined in section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption.

a. Military Offense

Military discipline may or may not require a criminal record exemption. These convictions will usually list an offense for a violation of the "UCMJ" (Uniform Code of Military Justice). To be considered a "criminal conviction for RFA purposes," the elements of the military offense must contain all the elements required for a California crime. Offenses such as murder, robbery, and drunk driving match state offenses and will likely require an exemption, but only if the individual was provided state-level due process (e.g., a judge or jury or military tribunal, appointed counsel, the right to call and question witnesses). Discipline for certain military conduct, such as desertion or disobeying an order, is not equivalent to any California crime and should generally not be considered. If a county obtains military records indicating conduct resulting in military discipline, a legal consult should be obtained to determine whether the conduct may be considered as criminal conduct or as an aggravating factor to a conviction.

When in doubt about the offense or the level of due process afforded, consult with county counsel/legal department.

b. Immigration

A CORI may have a hit including a crime related to unlawful entry into the United States, but there is no clear indication of conviction, arrest, etc. The reviewing agency would look to the disposition entry on the rap sheet, to determine whether a penalty, jail time, or probation was imposed. Generally, these are good indicators that there was a conviction. The individual must request an exemption for any conviction(s) and will be evaluated for present good character and rehabilitation, regardless of immigration status.

If the CORI indicates a “deportation” or “deported to country of origin,” the individual was most likely returned to his or her country of origin. A deportation does not constitute a conviction. He or she would not need an exemption and is entitled to a clearance regardless of his or her immigration status, provided there is no additional arrest or conviction indicated in the individual’s criminal history information. The reviewing agency may choose to investigate a deportation arrest and assess for conduct. However, approval of a resource family may not be delayed by the investigation, unless the arrest was for a crime specified at Health and Safety Code section 1522(e).

107 CHILD ABUSE CENTRAL INDEX (CACI)

The Child Abuse Central Index is a database maintained by DOJ that contains an index of individuals with a substantiated history of child abuse or severe neglect, as defined in the Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act (Penal Code section 11164 et seq.). Welfare and Institutions Code section 16519.5 requires that the Child Abuse Central Index be checked pursuant to H&S Code 1522.1 prior to Resource Family Approval. Reviewing agencies must ensure that subsequent CACI notifications are in place with the DOJ. Please note that individuals with a CACI clearance conducted prior to January 1, 1999 may not have subsequent notifications in place and may need to be re-printed. Child Abuse Central Index searches are automatically completed by Department of Justice once an individual completes the live scan fingerprint check.

The Department of Justice will conduct a search of the Child Abuse Central Index and respond with one of the following:

1. “Possible match.”
2. “No match to any report on file entered as an applicant.”

The Department of Justice response time for a Child Abuse Central Index check varies from three (3) days to eight (8) weeks.

In a situation where the DOJ rap sheet contains both a criminal incident and a CACI violation related to the same incident, all aspects of the results must be evaluated and investigated. Information contained in CACI may not be contained in criminal record information and vice versa. The fact that there are related incidents on both the rap sheet and in CACI does not relieve the reviewing agency from investigating both hits.

When a Child Abuse Central Index Check possible match is received by the reviewing agency, the identity of the individual must be confirmed before initiating an investigation.

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

The following procedures should be completed when confirming the individual's identity:

- Check all identifying information, including the spelling of the individual's name, date of birth, and social security number (if available) to determine whether the Child Abuse Central Index check and application information match.
- After using the process above to confirm the individual's identity, the reviewing agency must conduct an investigation.

Contact the reporting agency and/or involved law enforcement agency for any available reports. Reporting agency records may include arrest or incident reports, investigative reports, delivered service log entries, social worker reports to the court, probation officer reports to the court, grievance hearing records, juvenile court records or criminal court records. For juvenile court records, relevant findings and orders are often made at the jurisdictional/dispositional hearings, so efforts should be made to obtain those reports along with the minute orders.

Upon receipt of the investigative report from the reporting agency, determine the appropriate course of action. If there are no other hits (convictions, CACI, serious arrests) resulting from the live scan fingerprint check, and the investigation results in no evidence of underlying conduct that poses a risk or threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent, the reviewing agency shall grant a clearance. Alternatively, an administrative action, including but not limited to application denial or an exclusion action against an associated individual, may be filed if the investigation reveals admissible evidence of conduct that poses a risk or threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. The mere fact that an individual has a CACI hit is not independently sufficient to pursue administrative action. If there are concerns and a clearance is not recommended, consult with your assigned county liaison and consulting attorney. A legal consult is always required prior to an administrative action (i.e., issuance of a NOA).

If the person has a CACI match and was not previously afforded due process in a CACI grievance hearing, juvenile dependency or a criminal proceeding, he/she is entitled to request a grievance hearing (Gomez v. Saenz). Refer him or her to the reporting agency.

108 ADAM WALSH CHILD PROTECTION AND SAFETY ACT OF 2006

Senate Bill 703 (Chapter 583, Statutes of 2007) requires California to implement the federal requirements specified in the Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act of 2006 for prospective foster and adoptive parents. Effective January 1, 2008, there are stricter criminal history and child abuse checks prior to foster family home licensure, issuance of certificates of approval for certified family homes, and approval of relative/NREFM homes. These requirements will now also apply to Resource Family Approval.

Out-of-State Child Abuse and Neglect Registry Checks

If the applicant indicates on the Resource Family Criminal Record Statement (RFA 01B) that they have resided in another state within the last 5 years, the applicant must complete an Out-of-State Child Abuse/Neglect Report Request (LIC 198B) on the county's letterhead. NOTE: Some states require use of their own form, notarization or witnessing of the individual's signature, or fee payment. A list of the most current registries, contacts and requirements for each state is available on the Adam Walsh Information and Forms page.

Send the LIC 198B, or the state-specific form, and all requested documents to the state(s) identified with a cover page. If information is not received within fourteen (14) business days, send the request again with a "Second Request" stamp. Verify the correct fax numbers, mailing addresses or contacts are being used. Seven (7) business days after the second request has been sent, if the other state remains unresponsive, track the following information and email the RFA Inbox at RFA@dss.ca.gov with the subject line: ADAM WALSH OGAN DELAY – STATE NAME (i.e., Nevada):

- Case identifier (i.e., name).
- Name of state the information was requested from.
- Date the county requested information from the other state.
- Contact person and contact information for the other state.
- Dates of any follow-up.
- Date the information was received.
- Note/comments, if applicable.

On receipt of a response from the other state's registry indicating No Match, the reviewing agency should send a clearance letter. If the other state indicates that the individual may be matched on its Child Abuse/Neglect Registry, and the investigative report is not included, it is best practice to notify the individual by letter that further investigation is required.

Request the investigative report from the agency that conducted the original child abuse investigation. Send a cover letter with a copy of the other state's registry response. Follow the reviewing agency's procedures for processing requests for payment of fees.

Upon receipt of the investigative report from the reporting agency, the reviewing agency shall conduct an investigation to determine whether or not the individual poses a risk or threat to the health and safety of a child.

If a clearance is granted, the reviewing agency should notify the individual by letter. If there are concerns and a clearance is not recommended, consult with your assigned RFA county liaison to determine whether a legal consult is needed.

109 CRIMINAL OFFENDER RECORD INFORMATION (CORI)

A Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) or a criminal record transcript, commonly referred to as a rap sheet, is a document provided by the Department of Justice (DOJ) or the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in response to a request for a criminal record review by the submission of fingerprints. Pursuant to W&IC Section 16519.5 and its cross reference to Family Code (FC) Section 8712, reviewing agencies will receive the individual's full criminal history. The reviewing agency is responsible for reviewing the arrest and conviction information on the rap sheet and as self-disclosed on the Resource Family Criminal Record Statement (RFA 01B).

The rap sheet may note multiple arrests for felonies or misdemeanors, yet not show any conviction or disposition information. The rap sheet may also contradict an individual's self-disclosure or DMV database. For example, the rap sheet may indicate that the conviction is for a felony when the charge was actually reduced to a misdemeanor pursuant to a plea agreement. In some cases, the reviewing agency will need to obtain court records, DOJ arrest disposition and/or relevant arrest or incident reports in order to ensure the accuracy of the rap sheet.

Crime reports and court records may provide information indicating that the conduct underlying a conviction may be more serious than is indicated by the conviction. For example, misdemeanor convictions for Penal Code (PC) section 415 (also known as “Disturbs by Loud, Unreasonable Noise” or “Disturbing the Peace”) and PC section 594 (Vandalism) are frequently pled down from a domestic violence charge. Therefore, it may be necessary for the reviewing agency to obtain arrest or crime reports to properly evaluate the individual’s criminal history. Certified court records and/or certified crime reports will be needed to prove the criminal conduct or conviction at an administrative hearing. The rap sheet will not be accepted as evidence at the hearing.

Based on policies and procedures approved by the Department of Justice, the reviewing agency may discuss all convictions noted on the rap sheet with the individual. It is not necessary to obtain a court conviction record prior to this discussion.

The CORI/rap sheet itself is confidential and shall not be shared with anyone other than the subject of the rap sheet. For example, if the rap sheet pertains to a resident or person regularly present in the home, the rap sheet shall not be shared with the applicant, Resource Family, or other reviewing agency. However, the CORI may be reviewed by specific entities that have the statutory authority to do so, such as state or federal auditors. Criminal history information will be summarized in the Written Report and may be shared for purposes of approval, transfer, and placement.

Individuals who are not eligible for a criminal record clearance must be expeditiously provided a copy of the Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) received from the DOJ pursuant to PC 11105(t). A copy of the CORI can be provided directly to the person, or it can be included in the initial notice to the individual by either copying/pasting or attaching the information.

When a new or complete rap sheet is obtained from the Department of Justice, only the criminal history information on the most current, complete rap sheet can be considered by the reviewing agency. The reviewing agency is not authorized to check old rap sheets for additional information or compare versions to include information that has been removed by DOJ and is no longer legally available for consideration.

When subsequent arrest information is received from the Department of Justice, the rap sheet will only contain new information. The reviewing agency must reference the most current complete rap sheet as well as the subsequent arrest information to properly evaluate the individual’s present character.

110 MARIJUANA-RELATED CONVICTIONS

The Department of Justice should screen out specific minor marijuana convictions/arrests that are over 2 years old. If this information is on the rap sheet, it shall not be considered to be relevant for any purpose. This is codified by the Marijuana Reform Act of 1977 (H&SC Sections 11361.5 and 11361.7).

Misdemeanor convictions not to be considered if the conviction occurred over 2 years ago:

H&SC section 11357(b), possession of 28.5 grams or less
H&SC section 11357(c), possession of over 28.5 grams
H&SC section 11357(d), possession of 28.5 grams or less on K-12 school grounds
H&SC section 11357(e), juvenile in possession of 28.5 grams or less
H&SC section 11360(b), transportation of 28.5 grams or less

Felony and misdemeanor convictions not to be considered if the conviction occurred prior to 1976:

H&SC section 11357, possession
H&SC section 11364, drug paraphernalia
H&SC section 11365, presence where marijuana is being unlawfully used
H&SC section 11550, under the influence of marijuana

111 NON-EXEMPTIBLE CRIMES

If an individual subject to the background check requirement has been convicted of a crime that is non-exemptible and continues to reside or is regularly present in the home, the application/approval must be denied/rescinded. The reviewing agency must inform the applicant of the denial. The reviewing agency must send written notification in the form of a NOA to both the applicant/Resource Family and the individual. The NOA to the affected individual must identify the legal basis for the decision and the conviction information relied on to make the determination. This information will usually be contained in the state summary criminal history information received from the Department of Justice but should always be verified by court records, a DOJ arrest disposition report, a California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) 969B prison packet, or an admission. In addition, the letter must list the non-exemptible conviction(s), the date of the conviction, and the location (city or county) of the conviction, if known.

If a prospective associated individual has been convicted of a crime that is non-exemptible, the reviewing agency must send separate, concurrent letters to both the applicant/Resource Family and to the individual, notifying them that the individual's crime is non-exemptible and that the individual may not reside in or be regularly present in the home.

If the individual's crime does not appear on the state non-exemptible crimes list and does not meet the definition of a federal non-exemptible crime or a 5-year ban crime, the individual has the right to request an exemption (see section 119, Exemptions).

a. State Non-Exemptible¹ Crimes

Health and Safety Code (H&SC) 1522 prohibits the Department of Social Services, county licensing agencies, or approval agencies from granting a criminal record exemption for specific enumerated crimes regardless of when the conviction occurred.

¹ Juveniles and young adults sentenced to California Youth Authority may be released from such disabilities under W&IC Section 1179 and/or 1772. Reviewing agencies are advised to consult the Legal Division if this issue arises.

b. Federal Non-Exemptible Crimes

The federal Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act of 2006 (Assembly Bill 595, Chapter 246, Statutes of 2009) allowed California to amend state law and implement the federal requirements. These crimes are in addition to the state non-exemptible crimes. Under federal law, an individual is ineligible to request a criminal record exemption for any felony conviction for child abuse or neglect, spousal abuse, crimes against a child (including child pornography), or for a crime involving violence, including rape, sexual assault, or homicide, but not including other physical assault and battery.

H&SC section 1522(g)(2)(A)(iii) states:

“Under no circumstances shall an exemption be granted pursuant to this subdivision to any foster care provider applicant if that applicant or any other person specified in [H&SC section 1522] subdivision (b) in those homes, has a felony conviction for either of the following offenses:

- (I) A felony conviction for child abuse or neglect, spousal abuse, crimes against a child (including child pornography), or for a crime involving violence, including rape, sexual assault, or homicide, but not including other physical assault and battery. For purposes of this subparagraph, a crime involving violence means any violent crime specified in clause (i) of subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B).” (emphasis added)

The reference to “crimes involving violence” means those violent crimes on the state’s non-exemptible crimes list.

Felony convictions for “child abuse or neglect”:

There are no additional crimes for this category as the state’s existing non-exemptible crimes list covers these crimes.

Felony convictions for “spousal abuse⁴”:

This list represents crimes likely to be non-exemptible under the Adam Walsh Act. The Adam Walsh Act does not enumerate all California crimes that should be considered non-exemptible. This list is not exhaustive. The reviewing agency shall use the criteria stated above to make a final determination as to whether or not a conviction is non-exemptible pursuant to the Adam Walsh Act.

c. Federal 5-Year Ban Crimes

Under federal law, statute further prohibits the Department of Social Services from granting a criminal record exemption for any felony conviction that occurred within the last five years, for physical assault, battery, or drug or alcohol-related offenses. The law includes crimes for which an exemption may not be granted if the conviction occurred within the last 5 years. These crimes are in addition to the state’s existing non-exemptible crimes and the federal non-exemptible crimes.

H&SC section 1522(g)(2)(A)(iii) states:

“Under no circumstances shall an exemption be granted pursuant to this subdivision to any foster care provider applicant if that applicant or any other person specified in subdivision [H&SC section 1522] (b) in those homes, has a felony conviction for either of the following offenses:

(I) [continued]

(II) A felony conviction, within the last five years, for physical assault, battery, or drug or alcohol-related offense.” (emphasis added)

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

If an applicant or any prospective associated individual has been convicted of any one of these crimes within the last 5 years, he/she is not eligible to request a criminal record exemption. The approval must be denied or rescinded if the individual continues to reside or be regularly present in the home.

112 CERTIFICATE OF REHABILITATION

Unlike state licensed facilities, Resource Families, applicants, and associated individuals who have been convicted of a non-exemptible crime covered in H&SC 1522 are not eligible to request an exemption when they have obtained a Certificate of Rehabilitation.

113 ARREST-ONLY, INITIAL AND SUBSEQUENT

Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) may contain only arrest information or arrest information in addition to conviction information.

If an initial applicant or associated individual is currently awaiting trial for a criminal offense, the reviewing agency may cease processing the application. This means that the review is put on “hold” while the criminal case is pending. This “cease” should not be considered a denial that triggers due process procedures unless the county obtained independent evidence to support a denial and will be issuing an NOA. However, in these cases, the NLI must be sent to DOJ when the reviewing agency ceases processing the application. The individual will have to re-submit fingerprints if he or she wishes to continue with the RFA process after resolution of the criminal matter.

If an individual’s criminal record indicates an arrest for a crime listed in Health and Safety Code (H&SC) section 1522(e), a county shall not grant the individual a clearance until an investigation of the arrest, including a review of any crime reports, has been completed. However, a record of arrest cannot be used to deny or rescind approval unless the reviewing agency has investigated the arrest and secured evidence that the conduct by the person may pose a risk to the health and safety of a child.

H&SC 1522(e)(2) states:

The department shall not issue a criminal record clearance to a person who has been arrested for any crime specified in Section 290 of the Penal Code, or for violating Section 245, 273ab, or 273.5, or subdivision (b) of Section 273a, of the Penal Code, or, prior to January 1, 1994, paragraph (2) of Section 273a of the Penal Code, or for any crime for which the department is prohibited from granting a criminal record exemption pursuant to subdivision (g), prior to the completion of an investigation pursuant to paragraph (1).

In addition to serious arrests listed at H&SC 1522(e), the reviewing agency has discretion to investigate any and all arrest information that may lead to evidence indicating a risk to the health and safety of a child. Unlike the serious arrests listed in 1522(e), these discretionary investigations should not delay the approval process. The reviewing agency should obtain and review any available arrest reports and attempt to interview any relevant witnesses. The only exception to this requirement would be if the individual obtained a finding of factual innocence, that information shall not be investigated (see section 114, Finding of Factual Innocence).

Check with the court in the county where the arrest occurred to determine if the arrest is active. If the individual is awaiting trial (active arrest or warrant) the reviewing agency may cease processing an initial application. A letter must be sent indicating that the clearance cannot be processed until the criminal case concludes.

For subsequent arrest information, please see section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption. The reviewing agency is mandated to investigate the arrest conduct to ensure the continued health, safety and welfare of a child. This mandate is independent of any law enforcement duty to investigate or criminally prosecute the conduct. Failure to criminally prosecute does not preclude the reviewing agency from continuing its investigation and taking administrative action, if appropriate.

Ensure the following conditions are met:

- The arrest has not subsequently turned into a conviction (see section 119, Exemptions).
- The individual has not had an administrative action that would prevent the issuance of a clearance (see section 125, Administrative Actions).
- The rap sheet does not indicate that the individual has an outstanding warrant or pending criminal trial (see section 116, Arrest Warrants).

The reviewing agency will also receive subsequent criminal arrest information (rap back or subsequent arrest notification). The report will specify the violation, but usually will not indicate the disposition. The reviewing agency should investigate any, and all, arrest information that may lead to evidence indicating a risk to the health and safety of children.

During the arrest investigation the reviewing agency may only recommend excluding a person from the home after obtaining evidence that he/she may pose a risk to the health and safety of a child.

Procedures for Arrests Requiring Investigation

If an investigation is warranted, admissible evidence must be obtained. It is recommended that the reviewing agency take the following steps:

- Request and review information contained in the individual's records.
- Obtain a copy of the arrest report and evaluate the individual's role in the crime. Individuals frequently make statements to the police that are documented in the arrest reports that may be considered an "admission" under the Evidence Code. In addition, officer observations such as observations of the scene, the subject's conduct, or injuries to the victim, may be admissible as direct evidence if the report is certified. Such statements should be provided to the consulting attorney for review during a legal consult.
- Contact and interview witnesses.
- Interview the individual for additional information and ask the individual if they have any documentation related to the arrest.
- Document in detail all actions and witness interviews.
- Ensure the privacy of the investigation and individual.

Procedures After Investigation Has Been Completed

- Prepare a final report documenting all actions and findings.
- Document the results of your investigation.

When issuing a finding related to an arrest that did not result in a conviction, the finding should describe the conduct underlying the arrest and not the fact that the individual was arrested. For example, a finding regarding an arrest-only for domestic violence may read, “On or about June 1, 2016, John Smith engaged in a physical altercation with [victim – confidential] during which he choked and punched [victim – confidential], resulting in visible injuries to her face and neck.” This principle applies to the allegations in an NOA or Position Statement as well. If it appears that a potential administrative action may be needed, contact the assigned RFA county liaison and consulting attorney. Refer to section 125, Administrative Actions for more information.

114 FINDING OF FACTUAL INNOCENCE

For innocent people who are arrested, California has a process by which an individual can get his/her arrest records sealed for 3 years and destroyed thereafter. Individuals can petition to clear their arrest records up to two (2) years after the date of arrest or the filing of the accusatory pleading, whichever is later. A finding of factual innocence can be made only if no reasonable cause exists to believe the individual arrested committed the offense. When an individual succeeds with this process, the police reports, fingerprints, booking photos and all records of the arrest get eliminated. The individual then can legally answer “no” when asked whether he/she has been arrested (PC section 851.8).

Reviewing agencies shall not investigate arrest information related to a successful petition for a finding of factual innocence.

115 JUVENILE RECORDS

If a person committed a crime when they were under the age of 18 and the charges were adjudicated in Juvenile Court, the disposition shall not be considered a conviction for background check purposes. Juvenile Court adjudications may be investigated to determine if the underlying conduct should be used as a basis to deny or rescind a criminal record clearance or exemption, similar to an arrest-only incident (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial and Subsequent). Likewise, an NOA for denial or rescission based on a juvenile adjudication should identify the criminal conduct underlying the juvenile adjudication and not describe it as a juvenile “conviction.” When a person under the age of 18 is tried as an adult in superior court, any resulting conviction, except a minor traffic violation, may be used as the basis to deny or rescind a criminal record clearance or exemption.

In some cases, a juvenile court record may be sealed and unavailable for inspection. The records may be sealed automatically by the court or through a petition filed by the person to whom the records pertain or a probation officer. Once sealed, the proceedings are deemed never to have occurred, and the person may properly reply accordingly to any inquiry about the events.

Five years after the jurisdiction of the juvenile court over a person is terminated, the probation officer may destroy all probation records concerning the person.

With limited exceptions, juvenile court records shall be destroyed five years after the record has been sealed or once the person reaches a particular age, depending on the conduct that lead to the Juvenile Court’s jurisdiction over the person. Alternatively, a person may request the release of the records to him or herself. The proceedings in any case in which the juvenile court record is destroyed or released to the person shall be deemed never to have occurred, and the person may reply accordingly to any inquiry about the events in the case.

116 ARREST WARRANTS

A warrant is a legal process initiated at the municipal or superior court level. For example, if an individual has been cited or arrested for any crime and he/she does not make a mandated court appearance, a judge may issue a warrant for that individual's arrest.

The Department of Justice (DOJ) will attempt to obtain the adjudication of the warrant before the rap sheet is forwarded to the reviewing agency; however, in many instances the reviewing agency will not see the status of the warrant on the initial rap sheet.

a. Initial Inquiry Only

Contact the court or review its website to determine if the warrant is valid, current or active, or resulted in a conviction.

If the warrant is valid, current, or active, the reviewing agency has discretion to either continue processing the background check or to cease processing until the pending criminal matter has been resolved.

- It would be appropriate to cease processing the case if the warrant was, for example, related to a non-exemptible crime which would prohibit RFA approval if the criminal case ultimately results in a conviction. In these cases, the NLI must be sent to DOJ. The individual will have to re-submit fingerprints if he or she wishes to continue with the RFA process after resolution of the criminal matter.
- If an individual has a conviction(s) on his or her CORI, the reviewing agency may move forward with the exemption process even if there is an active warrant. Any facts and circumstances surrounding the warrant shall be considered when evaluating the exemption request for evidence of present good character and rehabilitation.
- A clearance may be appropriate if there are no convictions, nothing in the person's criminal history indicates a potential risk to the health and safety of a child, and the warrant is for an infraction that would not require a criminal record exemption.
- If the reviewing agency cannot determine whether a warrant is active, continue processing the background check based on the available information.

b. Subsequent

If the reviewing agency becomes aware, either through a subsequent rap sheet or any other means, that the individual has an outstanding warrant and the individual has been granted a criminal record clearance or an exemption, agencies must:

- Contact the resource family to determine if the individual is still in the home. If not, close the case. If yes, continue to evaluate the warrant.
- Contact the court to determine if the warrant is valid, current or active, or resulted in a conviction.
- Evaluate any available evidence to determine if an administrative action is necessary to protect the health and safety of a child.

117 DIVERSION/DEFERRED ENTRY OF JUDGMENT

Diversion programs are detailed in the Penal Code 1000 through 1000.12 and 1001 through 1001.67. These programs afford some criminal defendants an opportunity to avoid further prosecution and civil disabilities by participating in a work program, educational program, or rehabilitative counseling. Depending on the program type, the individual's success or failure in the program, and any civil disability protection obtained, an exemption may or may not be appropriate.

When referencing diversion programs, rap sheets often provide unclear or insufficient information. The diversion program type may or may not be listed. The term "terminated" is not consistently used by the courts and could mean completion or failure of the diversion program. Additionally, "reinstatement of the criminal proceedings" does not necessarily indicate that the person has been or will be convicted. Check records to ensure accuracy. Once the diversion program is identified, approval agencies shall review the underlying statutory authority to determine whether or not the relevant criminal history can be considered for RFA purposes. On successful completion of the program, the charges are dismissed, the person need not disclose the arrest or diversion, and the record of arrest shall not be used to deny employment, licensure, benefits, or certification.

NOTE: Participation in a diversion program is not "Awaiting Trial" and therefore, the individual's case cannot be closed pending completion of the diversion program.

- If an individual has a conviction(s) on his or her CORI, the reviewing agency may move forward with the exemption process even if the individual is currently participating in a diversion program. The individual's participation and progress in the diversion program shall be considered when evaluating the exemption request for evidence of present good character and rehabilitation.
- A clearance may be appropriate pending completion of a diversion program if there are no convictions, nothing in the person's criminal history indicates a potential risk to the health and safety of a child, and the arrest was not for a crime listed in H&SC 1522(e).

If the case results in a conviction, both the crime and the nature of the individual's participation in the diversion program may be considered in the processing of a subsequent exemption request.

Identifying the Diversion Program and its effect:

Because each diversion program under the Penal Code has its own criteria and protections, the specific diversion program and the individual's progress in that program must be identified. Take the following steps:

1. Check the rap sheet. If the information is absent or cursory, contact the court and/or probation department for assistance identifying the specific diversion program and the individual's progress in that program. Obtain the court records reflecting the individual's referral to diversion program.
2. If still unable to identify the diversion program and individual's progress, send written notification to the individual requesting identification and documentation of the criminal charge, the diversion program, the progress made in the program, and the expected completion date.

3. Obtain and analyze the written response and any supporting documents to determine the diversion program used and the progress made.

Informal Diversion/Probation Note: Completion of an informal diversion/ probation program will not prevent the reviewing agency from proving conduct to exclude. These are often referred to as District Attorney (DA) diversion, county diversion or deferred prosecution. Determine the following: 1) Whether or not it is an informal diversion program; 2) Whether or not a conviction exists; and/or 3) Whether an arrest-only investigation is appropriate.

Below are the most common diversion programs and instructions on how to process them based on the civil relief detailed in each statutory section. Be sure to check the Penal Code section of the relevant diversion program to ensure that there have been no changes to the statute. Check with county counsel if necessary.

After Identifying the Diversion Program, Process as Follows:

PENAL CODE §1000 – 1000.8 DIVERSION PROGRAM

This program is an 18-month to three-year diversion program for DRUG OFFENDERS. It may also be called Deferred Entry of Judgment. Although a plea of guilty is required, the plea is conditional and cannot be used to deny or exclude. Upon successful completion, the charges are dismissed, the person need not disclose the arrest or diversion, the arrest is deemed never to have occurred, and the record of arrest can no longer be used to deny a resource family certificate or exclude.

- A. Process as an arrest-only at any time prior to successful completion (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial and Subsequent).
- B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.
- C. Process as a clearance if the person successfully completed the diversion program, there are no additional convictions, and the case is inappropriate for continued investigation as described in D.
- D. Process as an arrest-only investigation after successful completion ONLY if independent or additional evidence exists to prove conduct posing a risk of threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. This is because the arrest is deemed to never have occurred. Additional evidence includes evidence obtained independent of the arrest record, or evidence developed from the arrest record prior to successful completion of the diversion program. Check for any Child Abuse Central Index hits.

PENAL CODE §1000.6 DIVERSION PROGRAM (1985-1995) (Repealed January 1, 1996.)

This was a diversion program for individuals charged with DOMESTIC VIOLENCE OTHER THAN SPOUSAL ABUSE (violence or threat of violence against family or household members). A plea was not required. Statements made in the program are inadmissible. Upon successful completion, the charges were dismissed, the person need not disclose the arrest or diversion, the arrest was deemed never to have occurred, and the record of arrest can no longer be used to deny a resource family certificate or exclude.

- A. Process as an arrest-only at any time prior to successful completion (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial and Subsequent).
- B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.
- C. Process as a clearance if the person successfully completed the diversion program, there are no additional convictions, and the case is inappropriate for continued investigation as described in D.
- D. Process as an arrest-only investigation after successful completion ONLY if independent or additional evidence exists to prove conduct posing a risk of threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. This is because the arrest is deemed to never have occurred. Additional evidence includes evidence obtained independent of the arrest record, or evidence developed from the arrest record prior to successful completion of the diversion program. Check for any Child Abuse Central Index hits.

PENAL CODE §1000.12 DIVERSION PROGRAM

A person charged with PHYSICALLY ABUSING OR NEGLECTING A MINOR VICTIM may be referred to counseling in lieu of criminal prosecution. The criminal conduct must NOT have involved sex abuse, molest, force, or violence. A plea is not required. Charges are dismissed after successfully completing counseling.

- A. Process as a clearance if the person has no convictions.
- B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.
- C. Process as an arrest-only investigation at any time (Cross reference arrest only section). The reviewing agency may use the record of arrest and any other available evidence to prove that the individual neglected or abused a minor victim (conduct inimical), even after successful completion of this diversion program.

PENAL CODE §1001 – 1001.9 DIVERSION PROGRAM

This is a pretrial MISDEMEANOR DIVERSION PROGRAM that does not require a plea. It may last up to two years. Statements made in the program are inadmissible. Upon successful completion, the charges are dismissed, the person need not disclose the arrest or diversion, the arrest is deemed never to have occurred, and the record of arrest can no longer be used to deny a resource family certificate or exclude.

- A. Process as an arrest-only at any time prior to successful completion (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial and Subsequent).
- B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.
- C. Process as a clearance if the person successfully completed the diversion program, there are no additional convictions, and the case is inappropriate for continued investigation as described in D.

D. Process as an arrest-only investigation after successful completion ONLY if independent or additional evidence exists to prove conduct posing a risk of threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. This is because the arrest is deemed to never have occurred. Additional evidence includes evidence obtained independent of the arrest record, or evidence developed from the arrest record prior to successful completion of the diversion program. Check for any Child Abuse Central Index hits

PENAL CODE §1001.20 – 1001.34 DIVERSION PROGRAM

This is a diversion program for persons with COGNITIVE DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES who are charged with any misdemeanor offense. It can last up to two years. A plea is not required. Statements made in the program are inadmissible. Upon successful completion, the charges are dismissed, the person need not disclose the arrest or diversion, the arrest is deemed never to have occurred, and the record of arrest can no longer be used to deny a resource family certificate or exclude.

A. Process as an arrest-only at any time prior to successful completion (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial and Subsequent).

B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.

C. Process as a clearance if the person successfully completed the diversion program, there are no additional convictions, and the case is inappropriate for continued investigation as described in D.

D. Process as an arrest-only investigation after successful completion ONLY if independent or additional evidence exists to prove conduct posing a risk of threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. This is because the arrest is deemed to never have occurred. Additional evidence includes evidence obtained independent of the arrest record, or evidence developed from the arrest record prior to successful completion of the diversion program.

PENAL CODE §1001.60 – 1001.67 DIVERSION PROGRAM

This is a diversion program for persons who WRITE CHECKS WITH INSUFFICIENT FUNDS in violation of Penal Code § 476a, a misdemeanor. The program does not require a plea, and statements made in the program are inadmissible. The program can last up to six months.

A. Process as a clearance if the person has no convictions.

B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.

PENAL CODE §1001.70 – 1001.75 DIVERSION PROGRAM

This diversion program is for PARENTS OR LEGAL GUARDIANS who have contributed to their own children's unlawful behavior in violation of Penal Code § 272, contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The program does not require a plea, and statements made in the program cannot be used to deny or exclude. The program can last up to two years. Upon successful completion, the charges are dismissed, the person need not disclose, the arrest is deemed never to have occurred, and the record of arrest can no longer be used to deny a resource family certificate or exclude.

- A. Process as an arrest-only at any time prior to successful completion (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial and Subsequent).
- B. Process as a conviction if the person fails the program and is convicted.
- C. Process as a clearance if the person successfully completed the diversion program, there are no additional convictions, and the case is inappropriate for continued investigation as described in D.
- D. Process as an arrest-only investigation after successful completion ONLY if independent or additional evidence exists to prove conduct posing a risk of threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent. This is because the arrest is deemed to never have occurred. Additional evidence includes evidence obtained independent of the arrest record, or evidence developed from the arrest record prior to successful completion of the diversion program. Check for any Child Abuse Central Index hits.

PENAL CODE §1210 and 1210.1 TREATMENT PROGRAM (PROP 36)

This treatment program for NONVIOLENT DRUG OFFENDERS is offered as a condition of probation, meaning the person stands convicted until dismissed upon successful completion. Upon successful completion, the conviction is dismissed, the arrest is deemed never to have occurred, and the record of arrest can no longer be used to deny a resource family certificate or exclude.

- A. Process as a conviction at any time prior to successful completion and dismissal of the conviction. The person has a conviction until it is dismissed.
- B. Issue a clearance after successful completion and dismissal of the conviction. Investigation into the conduct may be initiated or continued as described in C below.
- C. Process as an arrest-only investigation after successful completion only if independent or additional evidence exists to prove the conduct or continue the investigation. Additional evidence includes evidence obtained independent of the arrest record, or evidence developed from the arrest record prior to successful completion.

118 CHANGES IN DISPOSITIONAL STATUS, POST-CONVICTION

a. Governor's Pardon

The denial of an exemption cannot be based on the record of a criminal conviction that has been pardoned. The entry is no longer considered a conviction for purposes of the RFA background check. Adverse action based on a pardoned conviction is not authorized by statute and is prohibited by law. If in doubt about the status of the conviction, discuss with the assigned RFA county liaison.

b. Expungement

Convictions that have been set aside or dismissed per Penal Code (PC) sections 1203.4 or 1203.4a are considered convictions for exemption processing purposes pursuant to these PC sections and H&SC 1522(f). When the court sets aside or dismisses convictions based on these PC sections, it means that the convicted individual has satisfactorily fulfilled his or her probationary period and has applied to the court to set aside/dismiss the plea and/or the verdict. It does not mean that the individual was never convicted of the crime or is rehabilitated. Therefore, the individual is required to disclose the conviction on the RFA 01B.

Note: Any conviction rendered as a result of a nolo contendere plea is a conviction and shall be evaluated accordingly pursuant to H&SC section 1522(f).

c. Reduction

Crimes that are punishable as either a felony or a misdemeanor, at the discretion of the court, are known as “wobblers.” An individual who is convicted of a felony crime considered a wobbler can petition the court for a reduction of the conviction to a misdemeanor per PC 17. If the conviction is reduced pursuant to PC 17, it is considered a misdemeanor for all purposes, including Resource Family Approval background checks.

Example: A rap sheet with a felony conviction for PC 273.5 – Corporal Injury of a Spouse/Cohabitant may indicate that the conviction has been reduced to a misdemeanor pursuant to PC 17. While a felony conviction for PC 273.5 is a non-exemptible crime (see Adam Walsh federal non-exemptible crimes list), this conviction is now considered a misdemeanor for all purposes, and the individual is eligible to request a criminal record exemption.

119 EXEMPTIONS

An exemption is a Department of Social Services authorized written document that “exempts” an individual from the requirement of having a criminal record clearance (see section 102, Criminal Record Clearance).

An individual who has been convicted of a misdemeanor or felony crime (other than a minor traffic violation or a specific marijuana-related conviction more than 2 years old) is disqualified from approval as a resource family or from residing or being regularly present in a resource family home unless the individual is granted a criminal record exemption by the reviewing agency. A “minor traffic violation” means a violation of the Vehicle Code which has been deemed an infraction or a violation of any other law which has been deemed an infraction.

Exemptions are granted under the following circumstances:

- Standard – A standard exemption may be granted if the reviewing agency is in possession of substantial and convincing evidence to support a reasonable belief that the individual is rehabilitated and of present good character necessary to justify the granting of an exemption.
- Simplified – A simplified exemption shall be granted if the summary criminal history information (i.e., CORI/rap sheet, self-disclosures, etc.) independently supports a reasonable belief that the individual is rehabilitated and of present good character necessary to justify the granting of an exemption. However, an individual whose criminal history satisfies the simplified exemption criteria may be required to complete the standard exemption process if doing so is necessary to protect the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent.

An individual convicted of certain crimes specified in statute cannot obtain an exemption (see section 111, Non-Exemptible Crimes for a list of the crimes that are non-exemptible).

- An individual convicted of crimes that are not classified as non-exemptible may request an exemption.

If the reviewing agency requires an individual to complete the standard exemption process, the applicant/Resource Family must be sent a notice informing them that the individual must obtain a criminal record exemption, provided there are no convictions for non-exemptible crimes.

Concurrently, send the affected individual a corresponding notice to his or her address on record informing him or her of the same. This notice to the affected individual must include a copy of his/her Criminal Offender Record Information (CORI) (see section 109, Criminal Offender Record Information).

NOTE: Notwithstanding the granting of an exemption, the reviewing agency shall consider all criminal history information during the family evaluation.

The following are the 3 types of exemption processes:

1. Standard Exemption – The standard exemption process is used to evaluate an individual's criminal history if he or she has a conviction that meets any of the following criteria:
 - Felony conviction within the past 7 years;
 - Misdemeanor conviction within the past 5 years;
 - Misdemeanor Conviction for Penal Code §261.5 (statutory rape);
 - Misdemeanor Conviction for Penal Code §314 (lewd or obscene exposure of private parts);
 - Misdemeanor Conviction for Penal Code §368 (elder or dependent adult abuse).
2. Simplified Exemption – The simplified exemption process may be used for individuals whose criminal history does not meet any of the criteria listed above for a standard exemption. The simplified exemption process entails only an examination of the convicted person's rap sheet and any written or verbal self-disclosures received by the reviewing agency. The simplified exemption does not require a response from the individual and/or Resource Family.

Note: The reviewing agency has discretion to require a criminal record exemption using the standard exemption process even if the conviction(s) meets the simplified exemption process criteria and is not on the non-exemptible list.

3. Individual Exemption – If the Resource Family elects not to pursue an exemption on behalf of an affected individual and the individual no longer resides or is regularly present in the home, the affected individual has the right to request an individual exemption on his/her own behalf. A reviewing agency may associate the individual to a RFH on receipt of a written request from a Resource Family/applicant.

a. Standard Exemption

Upon receiving a rap sheet that contains a conviction that does not meet the simplified exemption criteria (see section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption) and is not on the non-exemptible crimes list (see b. Simplified Exemption below), the reviewing agency must immediately notify the Resource Family and the affected individual with separate, concurrent letters indicating the need for an exemption. An individual who has been convicted of a crime, other than a minor traffic violation, cannot obtain Resource Family approval, nor can he/she reside or be regularly present in a Resource Family home unless granted a criminal record exemption by the reviewing agency. Subsequent to approval, if additional criminal history information is received, the Resource Family and/or associated individual must seek an exemption to maintain approval or to reside or be regularly present in the home (see section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption).

The standard exemption process requires the compilation and evaluation of relevant information that would support the approval or denial of an exemption request. A decision can be made only after all submitted documentation has been reviewed.

(1) Exemption Needed notices require that the following be submitted within forty-five (45) calendar days from the date on the notice:

- (A) A signed exemption needed letter indicating that an exemption is being requested, returned from the Resource Family applicant, the Resource Family applicant on behalf of the individual, or the individual on his/her own behalf if the Resource Family chooses not to request an exemption.
- (B) A signed copy of the original Resource Family Criminal Record Statement (RFA 01B).
- (C) A written statement signed by the individual describing the events surrounding each conviction, including the approximate date, what happened, why it happened, and any other information he/she feels is important about the crime. The individual also must describe what he/she has done since the conviction to ensure he/she will not be involved in further criminal activity.
- (D) Documentation relevant to the conviction listed as the basis for the exemption including but not limited to: minute order or other court record, court docket or transcript, law enforcement records, and records from the Probation Department or California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR).
- (E) Verification of court ordered trainings, classes, courses, treatment, counseling completed, or other documentation demonstrating rehabilitation.
- (F) Three signed, original, and current character references, including the telephone number and address where he or she can be contacted. Character references must be current. The LIC 301E may be used as a guide to ensure the relevant information is captured by the person providing the reference. An individual listed as a reference on a Resource Family Application form (RFA 01A) may be the same individual providing a character reference for a criminal record exemption request, but the written statement itself should be specific to the exemption request and not copied from the RFA application.

(2) Evaluation of Standard Exemption

The reviewing agency must evaluate each exemption request and consider various factors, including but not limited to the following, to determine whether there is evidence of present good character and rehabilitation.

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

The following factors may support a determination that an individual has been rehabilitated and is presently of good character:

- (A) The nature of the crime or conduct did not involve acts of violence or physical harm to another person.
- (B) A substantial period of time has elapsed since the crime was committed or since the conduct occurred.
- (C) The number of offenses does not indicate a longstanding pattern of criminal conduct.
- (D) Circumstances surrounding the commission of the crime that would demonstrate that repetition is not likely.
 - (i) This factor requires the individual to attempt to obtain a copy of the arrest report. If the individual is unable to obtain the arrest report, the reviewing agency must obtain it to complete the exemption analysis. Because individuals most often cannot obtain these reports or are not provided with un-redacted copies, the burden generally falls upon the reviewing agency to obtain an un-redacted copy of the arrest report. The reviewing agency may only provide the individual with a copy through the discovery process associated to an administrative hearing.
- (E) Activities since conviction including, but not limited to, employment or participation in therapy, education or treatment, that would indicate changed behavior.
- (F) Granting by the Governor of a full and unconditional pardon (see section 118, Expungements/Pardons).
- (G) Character references indicate present good character.
 - (i) A character reference that demonstrates a knowledge and understanding of the individual's criminal background and an awareness of the individual's changed behavior and rehabilitation shall be given more weight than those that do not demonstrate such knowledge, understanding, and awareness.
- (H) A certificate of rehabilitation from a superior court (see section 112, Certificate of Rehabilitation).
- (I) Evidence of honesty and truthfulness as revealed in the application documents and interviews or during conversations between the individual and the reviewing agency.
- (J) The individual successfully completed the terms of probation or parole.

The following factors may support a determination, but is not conclusive evidence, that an individual requiring a criminal record exemption has not been rehabilitated or is not presently of good character:

- (A) False or misleading statements on forms, letters, documents, or during conversations between the individual or others and the reviewing agency, in order to obtain or maintain home approval or to obtain or maintain a criminal record exemption. This includes the individual's intentional failure to fully disclose his or her criminal history or child abuse or neglect history when required to do so in application documents or interviews.
 - (i) Evidence may include comments on the Resource Family Criminal Record Statement (RFA 01B). Failure to provide truthful statements may be grounds for an exemption denial; however, the reviewing agency will have to prove that the person intended to deceive.
- (B) The individual's statements or testimony denies or minimizes guilt or attempts to impeach a conviction.
- (C) The individual has not sought ongoing counseling, treatment or aftercare where such aftercare is determined to be necessary for an alcohol or substance abuse problem

- or has not completed education or counseling for the underlying cause of criminal behavior, such as anger management, child endangerment or negligent vehicle operation.
- (D) The individual has not paid full restitution or interest to a victim and/or has not paid court-ordered fines.
 - (E) The individual's statements or testimony fails to accept full responsibility for criminal conduct that resulted in a conviction, or the individual fails to express remorse.
 - (F) The individual has a conviction within the last 5 years for fraud or theft from a government program.
 - (G) The individual is currently on criminal probation.
 - (i) The relevant laws do not prohibit the granting of a criminal record exemption to an individual who is on criminal probation. Criminal probation is one of many factors that the reviewing agency should be considering.

To grant an exemption, the reviewing agency must evaluate the possibility of potential risk to the health and safety of children in care. Factors such as lack of remorse, honesty, integrity or failure to complete required courses or trainings are not automatic grounds for denial if there is other substantial and convincing evidence to support the granting an exemption. In all cases, the rationale for the decision must be thoroughly documented, in writing, in the exemption case file. The analysis must be based on objective facts, not on impressions or other non-objective criteria.

Assuming that an exemption was requested and that all the information specified in this section has been submitted, the exemption request must be evaluated for evidence of present good character and rehabilitation.

(3) Present Good Character/Rehabilitation

Rehabilitation can be determined by an individual's conduct following his or her conviction(s). The Department has issued a precedential decision clarifying that assertions of rehabilitation are no substitute for a track record of accomplishment when showing rehabilitation from drug use (see In Re Dodd, 99 CDSS 08).

The reviewing agency must consider all evidence relevant to what the individual has done since his/her last conviction to demonstrate "rehabilitation and present good character." For example, for a person with an alcohol or substance abuse history, rehabilitation is almost universally predicated on a choice to confront his or her problem, obtain treatment, followed by sobriety, and sustained through aftercare such as ongoing participation in a supportive program such as AA, NA, or another 12-Step program, a counseling program, or obtaining a sponsor.

Another example is that if the person has a history of domestic violence, rehabilitation may include completion of counseling or an anger management or domestic violence class, combined with the person's statements indicating they accept responsibility for their conduct, do not blame the victim, have learned the cause for their prior at-risk behavior and now respond appropriately.

For crimes of dishonesty such as forgery or theft, the Department has issued a relevant precedential decision, In re Powell, 99 CDSS 17. This precedential decision states the importance of being able to trust the truth and veracity of those who deal directly with foster children, since we rely upon them to truthfully report any incidents that may arise as well as engender honesty as a positive role model.

The affected person must present substantial and convincing evidence satisfactory to the reviewing agency that he/she has been rehabilitated and presently is of such good character as to justify being granted an exemption

(4) References

Carefully review the character references. Consider the following:

- ✓ Are references complete and legible?
- ✓ Are they from a relative, employee, resident of the home, or the applicant/resource family?

References may be contacted, as necessary. Failure to submit character references may result in an exemption denial. The reviewing agency has discretion, however, to approve an exemption when the individual submits fewer than three character references, provided sufficient evidence of rehabilitation exists.

If any document or information is missing, either contact the individual or send an Additional Information Needed letter.

(5) Additional Factors

Carefully review the convictions while considering the following:

- (A) The roles and responsibilities of the Resource Family and the individual's position or relationship to the family.
- (B) The individual's sphere of influence in the home and potential opportunity to harm a child. Do the convictions warrant special consideration, given the relationship of the individual to the family?
- (C) The type of crime in relation to a child in out-of-home care.
 - For example, an individual with convictions for contributing to the delinquency of minors would be a concern if he/she planned on living in a resource family home.

(6) Conditions

When an individual meets all other exemption approval criteria, but there continue to be concerns about his/her ability to provide a particular element of care or be regularly present or reside in the home, the worker may recommend approval of the exemption with conditions. A conditional exemption places a restriction or condition on a standard exemption which limits contact with a child in out of home care or restricts his/her role in some way, e.g., individual is not to dispense prescription medications to a child or is not to transport children.

All conditional exemptions should be approved by a manager or designee or equivalent.

Prior to granting a conditional exemption, the reviewing agency may contact the Resource Family to discuss the parameters of the conditional approval and obtain their agreement with the terms. The Resource Family/individual may decline the conditional exemption and may appeal any subsequent decision to deny (see section 124, Appeal of the Exemption Denial).

A reviewing agency may deny a request for a criminal record exemption if any of the following occurs:

- (1) The individual, or applicant or Resource Family acting on the individual's behalf, fails to provide the documents specified in the Exemption Needed notice within 45 calendar days from the date on the notice provided by the reviewing agency.
- (2) The individual, applicant, or Resource Family acting on the individual's behalf, fails to cooperate in the exemption process.
- (3) The reviewing agency determines the individual is not of present good character or has not been rehabilitated.

NOTE: If a reviewing agency determines there is good cause and documents the reasons, it has discretion to continue evaluating the exemption request beyond the 45 days to provide documents specified in the Exemption Needed notice on a case-by-case basis.

b. Simplified Exemption

The simplified exemption process cannot be used to deny a criminal record exemption. If appropriate, the simplified process results in an exemption approval without the involvement of either the individual or the Resource Family. Unlike standard exemptions, a simplified exemption does not need to be requested. The simplified exemption process is a review based only on the convicted person's rap sheet and/or any written or verbal self-disclosure during the background check process. This process is designed to expedite the exemption decision by the reviewing agency when the rap sheet independently supports a reasonable belief that the individual is of present good character to justify the granting of an exemption. The reviewing agency has discretion to require a criminal record exemption using the standard exemption process even if the conviction meets the simplified exemption criteria if doing so is necessary to protect the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent.

Factors to consider when determining whether or not to require a standard exemption may include, but are not limited to, any demonstrated pattern of criminal conduct, the time that has passed since the individual's most recent conviction, and any information obtained from the individual's self-disclosure form (RFA 01B).

NOTE: The simplified exemption process cannot be used to expedite a denial.

Use of the simplified process must be indicated on the approving agency's criminal record clearance and exemption tracking log. The reviewing agency should notify the Resource Family and the affected individual of the approval by letter. A simplified exemption process may be used when all simplified exemption approval criteria are met.

A simplified exemption may be appropriate if an individual's criminal history does not include a non-exemptible conviction (see section 111, Non-Exemptible Crimes) and meets all of the following criteria:

- No felony conviction within the past 7 years;
- No misdemeanor conviction within the past 5 years;
- No convictions for any of the following crimes:
 - Misdemeanor conviction for Penal Code §261.5 (statutory rape);

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

- Misdemeanor conviction for Penal Code §314 (lewd or obscene exposure of private parts);
- Misdemeanor conviction for Penal Code §368 (elder or dependent adult abuse).

In deciding whether the reviewing agency should use its discretion in requiring an individual to complete the standard exemption process, the following may be considered:

1. The individual has a demonstrated pattern of criminal activity.
2. The conviction(s) involved violence and may pose a risk to the health and safety of a child.
3. Determinations made by reviewing the penal code language, the elements of the crime, and the original charges.
4. If there is any arrest that meets the investigation criteria at H&SC 1522(e), which includes arrests for non-exemptible crimes at any time (see section 113, Arrest-Only, Initial or Subsequent).
5. The rap sheet indicates that the individual was initially charged with a felony or a crime listed at H&SC 1522(e), but the charge was reduced and the person was subsequently convicted of a misdemeanor.
6. The rap sheet indicates that the individual was initially convicted of a felony, but the conviction was subsequently reduced to a misdemeanor per 17PC.
7. The individual is currently on formal (i.e., supervised) and/or informal (i.e., conditional, summary, or court) probation.
8. Prior or present administrative actions.

120. CERTIFIED RECORDS OF ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS

a. Convictions

A record of conviction is a record maintained by the court or other agency that documents the finding that a person was convicted of a crime and contains information on any sentence or fine. It may also indicate the reasons why the person was convicted. The most common types of court records used to prove a conviction are a judgment of conviction, a sentencing order, or a signed waiver and plea agreement. For the signed waiver and plea, you should also obtain the District Attorney's complaint or information, which will show the charges identified in the waiver and plea. If the court's conviction record has been purged, the court will often still be able to provide a certified copy of the court docket or other disposition record.

Counties shall have a legal consult prior to denying an exemption. The consult will confirm which state agency – Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) or CDSS State Hearings Division (SHD) – will conduct the administrative hearing in the event the denied exemption is appealed.

- For SHD, it is a best practice to obtain a certified copy of court conviction records, DOJ arrest disposition, or CDCR 969b packet and/or any crime reports, but certified documents are not required.
- For OAH, a certified copy of the court conviction record, DOJ arrest disposition, or CDCR 969b packet and/or any crime reports is required.

The certified court conviction records may be obtained by requesting the document from the office of the county court clerk in the county where the person was convicted. The specific county is usually noted in the agency column of the rap sheet. If the conviction occurred outside of California, attempt to identify the appropriate out-of-state agency and request a copy of the court conviction record.

A court may be unable to respond to the reviewing agency's letter of request because the information on the rap sheet is so vague that it is impossible to determine in what court system the person was convicted, or there is no record of the conviction because the record has been purged and an electronic docket is not available. If unable to obtain a court conviction record and the individual does not admit to the conviction in writing, the reviewing agency may obtain certified copies of disposition information, also known as the DOJ arrest disposition, by contacting the Department of Justice, Bureau of Criminal Identification and Analysis, Keeper of Records. The Department of Justice will provide this information if the stated purpose is for an "administrative law hearing only." An investigative subpoena is required. You may contact the DOJ either via email at keeperofrecords@doj.ca.gov or telephone at (916) 210-3310. A California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) 969b prison packet may be obtained from CDCR to prove a conviction for someone previously incarcerated in prison. If all other attempts to obtain proof of the conviction(s) are unsuccessful, consult with the assigned RFA county liaison to schedule a legal consult. The consulting attorney will determine if a "stipulation to convictions" by the affected individual is a possibility.

If a reviewing agency obtains information that a conviction actually occurred during the course of an arrest investigation, this newly-discovered conviction must be processed pursuant to section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption.

b. Arrests

If the subject of an exemption or arrest investigation is unable to obtain un-redacted arrest or other law enforcement reports, the reviewing agency must obtain the reports in order to evaluate the underlying conduct. If the reviewing agency is going to issue a Notice of Action (NOA), the reviewing agency must obtain certified copies of these reports in order to use them as evidence at hearing.

The law enforcement records may be obtained by requesting them from the office where the person was arrested or cited. The specific city or county is usually noted in the agency column of the rap sheet. If the arrest occurred outside of California, attempt to identify the appropriate out-of-state agency and request a copy of law enforcement report.

c. Unavailable Records

Despite a reviewing agency's best efforts, arrest and conviction records may be unavailable due to the agency's retention policies or unresponsiveness. If a specific record is no longer available, the agency will usually respond with a letter indicating the record has been purged. Sometimes a "purged" letter will contain information regarding the conviction and disposition which can be used as evidence. However, there are instances when an agency will not respond to a request for records. A reviewing agency should document efforts to obtain records. If multiple attempts to obtain records have been made and the reviewing agency has not received a response, a designated person, as determined by the reviewing agency, should make a determination that the documents are unavailable. As always, counties may utilize a legal consult to determine the appropriate course of action based on the evidence obtained. If a county plans to seek an exemption denial or rescission, a legal consult is required prior to issuing a Notice of Action.

121 NOTIFICATION OF THE EXEMPTION DECISION

Apply the following procedures when sending notifications regarding the exemption decision:

a. Approval

When granting a standard or simplified exemption, it is best practice to send separate and concurrent written notifications to the Resource Family and to the affected person.

Individual – Following an exemption needed notice, if the person is no longer associated to the home, the affected person still has a right to seek an exemption on his or her own behalf (i.e., an individual exemption). It is best practice to send a written notification of an individual exemption approval to the affected individual. This process is for an individual who is not residing or regularly present in a resource family home.

b. Denial

- (1) Standard – Prior to issuing a Notice of Action (NOA) (RFA 09B Notice of Action to Individual Regarding Resource Family Approval Criminal Record Exemption Decision) for denial of a criminal record exemption, the reviewing agency must seek a legal consult. When a reviewing agency issues an NOA for an exemption denial or rescission to the individual, and the denial or rescission requires an action against the resource family or applicant, the criminal history of the individual who is the subject of the exemption decision shall not be listed in the NOA to the family or applicant. A separate NOA for denial or rescission of the approval must be sent to the family or applicant that does not include the criminal history. The reviewing agency must notify the applicant or Resource Family of the denial or rescission using RFA 09: Notice of Action Regarding Resource Family Approval and must concurrently notify the affected person using RFA 09B: Notice of Action to Individual Regarding Resource Family Approval Criminal Record Exemption Decision. These forms can be found on the CDSS RFA website:

<http://www.cdss.ca.gov/inforesources/Resource-Family-Approval-Program>

- A. RFA Applicant/Resource Family – If the reviewing agency denies or rescinds the exemption of an applicant or Resource Family, the application must be denied or the Resource Family approval must be rescinded.
- B. Associated Individual – If the reviewing agency denies or rescinds the exemption of a prospective or actively associated individual, the individual may not reside or be regularly present in the home until an exemption is granted (see section on “Individual” below). If the person continues to reside or be regularly present in the home, the application must be denied or the Resource Family approval must be rescinded. Use the legal consult to determine if an exclusion action is appropriate based on conduct that did not result in a conviction.

- (2) Individual – If an individual who resides or is regularly present in the home is denied a criminal record exemption, the reviewing agency shall inform the Resource Family and the individual of the fact through separate, concurrent NOA notices. If the affected individual is no longer residing or regularly present in the home, he/she has the right to appeal the exemption denial or rescission on his/her own behalf.

Note: All NOAs must include the reason an exemption was denied. The reason cannot include specific information about the conviction(s) in communications with persons other than the affected individual.

However, specific details can be disclosed on the NOA when they were obtained from one of the following sources, independent of criminal history information received from the Department of Justice pursuant to the background check:

- Admissions by the individual in the RFA 01B (Resource Family Criminal Record Statement) or LIC 508D (Out-of-State Disclosure & Criminal Record Statement) or a written statement describing a crime;
- The reviewing agency has obtained a certified copy of a court record of a criminal conviction;
- The reviewing agency has an arrest disposition from DOJ;
- The reviewing agency has conviction records from the county District Attorney's office, Probation Department or the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation; or
- The reviewing agency has a statement from a reliable third party non-applicant regarding a conviction.

122 CLEARANCE OR EXEMPTION TRANSFER

(For Resource Family Transfers to a County Only)

If a Resource Family applicant or resident indicates that he/she is currently a licensed foster family home, approved relative/NREFM home, or an approved resource family with a completed background check, the clearance or exemption documentation of that check and subsequent arrest notifications (rap back service) may be transferred from one reviewing agency to another, provided that all of the following occur:

1. The transfer is within the RFA/foster care applicant type. The following are defined by the Department of Justice as the same applicant type under RFA for the purposes of conversion; therefore, transfers between these category types are allowed: Resource Family Homes, Relative/ Nonrelative Extended Family Member (NREFM) Homes, and Licensed Foster Family Homes.
2. The individual has an "active" status at the Department of Justice. That is, the original approval or licensing agency is still authorized to receive subsequent history information from the Department of Justice and has not made the applicant inactive by submitting a "No Longer Interested (NLI) Notification" form (BCIA 8302) to the Department of Justice.
3. The Department of Justice confirms that the authority to receive subsequent rap service has been transferred to the reviewing agency requesting the transfer (see below for specifics).

The reviewing agency requesting the transfer must contact the agency that previously processed the background check to determine whether the background check is eligible for a transfer and to inquire as to whether the individual has a clearance or a criminal record exemption.

For background checks processed by the Community Care Licensing Division (i.e., foster family homes), contact Caregiver Background Check Bureau Customer Service at (888) 422-5669. If the background check was processed by a county licensing agency and the correct office cannot be located, contact your assigned county liaison. If the background check was processed by a county relative reviewing agency, contact the county's Relative Assessment or Kinship Unit or RFA Single Point of Contact.

The reviewing agency requesting the transfer must also review the date of the Child Abuse Central Index check. If the inquiry was made prior to January 1, 1999, the individual must submit a new Child Abuse Central Index request as part of the transfer process. The reviewing agency requesting the transfer must ensure that the individual submits to the Department of Justice a Child Abuse Central Index Check for County Licensed Facilities (LIC 198), the current processing fee, and the Substitute Agency Notification Request (BCII 9002) with Steps I and II completed.

NOTE: The original agency shall not forward the individual's CORI to another agency at any time. Any CORI/RAP sheet received from DOJ may not be shared with anyone with the exception of the affected individual. However, the reviewing agency exemption decision documents may be shared.

a. Transferring a Criminal Record Clearance

A criminal record clearance to provide foster care in a state-licensed facility or approved home may be transferred to a resource family home provided:

- (1) The Resource Family/applicant has requested a criminal record clearance transfer, in writing, via the BCII 9002 or another template and provided proof of identification. The request shall contain all prescribed data elements and format protocols pursuant to a written agreement between the Department and the Department of Justice. If proof of identification was not received with the written request, timely follow up is needed.
- (2) A Federal Bureau of Investigation criminal history check has been completed and results received prior to transfer for Resource Family Homes.
- (3) Department of Justice confirms that the authority to receive subsequent rap service has been transferred to the reviewing agency requesting the transfer.

A. Relocation Between Counties

The reviewing agency may allow an individual to transfer his or her subsequent arrest notification if the individual moves from one county to another, as specified in H&SC section 1522(h). If a Resource Family moves to a different county, the approval remains in full force and effect unless approval is rescinded or the family chooses to surrender the approval.

i. Process for Requesting and Completing a Transfer of Clearance

If the individual's background check is eligible for a transfer and the individual has a criminal record clearance, the county requesting the transfer must:

- Give the individual a copy of the Substitute Agency Notification Request (BCII 9002), the phone number of the agency that processed the background check and instructions to:
 - Complete Step I of the form (applicant information).
 - Contact the licensing or reviewing agency that processed the clearance to obtain information to complete Step II.
 - Return the form with Step I and Step II completed.

- When the individual returns the form with Steps I and II completed, complete Step III and forward the form to the Department of Justice.
 - If accepted, the Department of Justice will notify the reviewing agency requesting the transfer that it has been completed via postal mail.
 - The Department of Justice will also notify the original licensing or reviewing agency via postal mail that the Department of Justice has authorized the transfer of subsequent rap service to the reviewing agency and request they send a No Longer Interested Notification (BCIA 8302) to the Department of Justice. Copies of the form are available on the Department of Justice website:

<https://www.oag.ca.gov/fingerprints/forms>

The transfer of subsequent arrest notification is not complete until the Department of Justice has approved the transfer request.

b. Transferring a Criminal Record Exemption

Resource Families who relocate shall retain their resource family status pending the outcome of an update to Resource Family Approval. In addition to resource family relocation between counties, exemptions originally granted for foster family homes and relative/NREFM homes that are now applying to convert to a Resource Family may be transferred for conversion purposes.

If the exemption was originally issued by another County or the Department the reviewing agency requesting the transfer must:

- Give the individual a copy of the Substitute Agency Notification Request (BCII 9002), the phone number of the agency that processed the original exemption, and instructions to:
 - Complete Step I of the Substitute Agency Notification Request form (BCII 9002) – applicant information.
 - Contact the licensing or reviewing agency that processed the original exemption to obtain information to complete Step II.
 - Return the form with Step I and Step II completed.

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

If it is determined that the exemption can be transferred, the reviewing agency requesting the transfer must:

- Complete Step III of the Substitute Agency Notification Request (BCII 9002) and send the completed form to the Department of Justice.
 - If accepted, the Department of Justice will notify the reviewing agency requesting the transfer that it has been completed via postal mail.
 - The Department of Justice will also notify the original licensing or reviewing agency via postal mail that the Department of Justice has authorized the transfer of subsequent arrest notifications to the reviewing agency and request they send a No Longer Interested Notification (BCIA 8302) to the Department of Justice. Copies of the form are available on the Department of Justice link below:

<https://oag.ca.gov/sites/all/files/agweb/pdfs/fingerprints/forms/nli.pdf>

- Request the exemption case file from the agency that granted the exemption. Specify that the file must contain all criminal history information and all relevant exemption support material. The exemption file must be provided in a manner to protect the confidentiality of the records. All original documentation regarding the individual's exemption will be maintained by the agency requesting the transfer. The original agency shall maintain copies of all exemption decision records for three (3) years for federal compliance purposes.

NOTE: The original agency shall not forward the individual's CORI with the exemption case file. Any CORI/rap sheet received from DOJ may not be shared with anyone with the exception of the affected individual.

- Review the exemption case file to determine:
 - Whether the individual's conviction(s), for which the exemption was granted, is now non-exemptible:

If the individual's exemption was granted for a conviction that is now non-exemptible, the exemption must be rescinded and the transfer denied (see section 125, Administrative Actions).
 - Whether the prior exemption was granted in error or there is new evidence indicating a potential risk to the health and safety of a child in out of home care or other individual. If so, the prior exemption should be reviewed anew.
 - Whether the individual's exemption includes all convictions. If all convictions have not been addressed, process a new exemption that includes all convictions.

NOTE: If the reviewing agency has any questions or doubts about the veracity of the exemption that was previously granted, consult with Legal. However, the receiving agency may not re-evaluate a previous exemption decision absent one of the extenuating circumstances discussed above pursuant to H&SC 1522(h)(3).

Subsequent to an approved transfer, the reviewing agency must continue to enforce and incorporate, as part of an approved exemption notification, any condition(s) placed on the individual pursuant to the previously granted exemption.

PLEASE NOTE that the BCII 9002 form is currently being revised to the BCIA 9002, which will also include the correct address the transfer request must be sent to. All BCII 9002/transfer requests must be sent to:

123 ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS – SUBSEQUENT TO CLEARANCE OR EXEMPTION

The Department of Justice will continue to send the reviewing agency subsequent arrest notifications unless otherwise notified by the reviewing agency that the individual is no longer associated to an approved resource family home or subsequent rap back service has been transferred to another reviewing agency.

a. Arrests

If an individual was allowed in a resource family home because he/she had a criminal record clearance or exemption and the reviewing agency subsequently receives a rap sheet containing an arrest but no convictions, the individual shall be allowed to remain in the home while the underlying conduct is investigated. Consult with the assigned RFA county liaison and consulting attorney if there is an immediate risk or threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent that may warrant an immediate exclusion action.

If, as a result of an arrest investigation, a reviewing agency obtains evidence demonstrating conduct that poses a potential risk to the health and safety of a child, contact the Resource Family and determine if the individual is still associated to the home. Conduct a legal consult and rescind the clearance or exemption. Additionally, rescind the Resource Family's approval if the individual continues to reside or is regularly present in the home.

RFA standards do not impact a placing agency's authority to make any placement decisions to ensure the health, safety, and well-being of the child or nonminor dependent, including situations in which the removal of a child or nonminor dependent is based in whole or in part on subsequent criminal history information.

b. Convictions

If the rap sheet includes a subsequent conviction, the reviewing agency must determine if immediate action is required while a criminal record exemption is evaluated. Unlike state licensed facilities, RFA approval agencies may not order the removal of an individual from the resource family/applicant's home pending a criminal record exemption decision. Thus, it is important to communicate with the resource family/applicant and the affected individual, to determine whether or not the individual will voluntarily move out of the home. If the individual remains in the home after a criminal record is denied, an administrative action against the application or approval of the resource family will be necessary.

If the conviction presents a risk of physical or emotional abuse, abandonment, or any other substantial threat to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent, an immediate exclusion action or temporary suspension order may be recommended to CDSS by the reviewing agency. Notify the Resource Family that the individual has been convicted of a crime affecting his or her clearance/exemption and determine if the individual will continue to reside or be regularly present in the home. Schedule a legal consult to determine the appropriate administrative action.

If the individual is no longer associated to the home, conduct a legal consult and proceed with rescission of the clearance/exemption. At a legal consult, determine if an exclusion action for the record is appropriate, which will ensure that the individual does not have access to other resource family homes or licensed community care facilities. If the affected individual continues to reside or be regularly present in the home, a Notice of Action (NOA) rescinding approval may be necessary as recommended at the legal consult.

If an individual is actively associated to a Resource Family home and a subsequent rap sheet with convictions is received, follow the procedures below.

(1) Non-Exemptible or 5-year Ban Conviction – Resource Family

If a member of the Resource Family has been convicted of a non-exemptible or 5-year ban crime (see section 112, Non-Exemptible Crimes), the approval must be rescinded.

- A. If it is decided that a Temporary Suspension Order is appropriate, prepare the Statement of Facts. Coordinate with the county liaison to ensure all required documents are sent to the assigned consulting attorney.
- B. If it is determined that the individual does not present a risk to children or other individuals, the reviewing agency may consider using an expedited rescission as discussed in paragraph (3) below and in section 125, Administrative Actions.
- C. Send the Resource Family and the individual separate Notices of Actions (NOA) informing them that the reviewing agency has received a subsequent rap sheet containing a non-exemptible or 5-year ban conviction and that the Resource Family approval has been rescinded. The letter to the affected individual must identify the documents or materials relied on to make the determination. In addition, the letter must list the conviction and, if known, the approximate date and court location where the conviction occurred.

(2) Non-Exemptible or 5-Year Ban Conviction – Associated Individual

- A. Prior to sending a written notification, make a reasonable attempt to contact the Resource Family by telephone to inform him/her that the affected individual was convicted of a non-exemptible or 5-year ban crime and may no longer reside or be regularly present in a resource family home.

- (A) If the affected individual will remain in the home, an administrative action against the RFA approval may be necessary. Conduct a legal consult to determine the appropriate action. Send separate Notices of Action (NOA) to the Resource Family and/or the affected individual. The NOA to the affected individual must identify the documents or materials relied on to make the determination.

(3) Exemptible Felony/Violent Misdemeanor – Resource Family

Subsequent to a clearance or subsequent to an exemption if a decision has been made not to rescind existing exemption

- A. Decide, in consultation with the County Liaison, whether to issue a Temporary Suspension Order or wait while allowing the Resource Family to seek an exemption.
- B. Send separate and concurrent notices to the Resource Family and the individual specifying the administrative action as determined at Legal Consult. The notice to the individual must list his/her conviction(s).
- C. For felonies and misdemeanors that may require immediate exclusion, the reviewing agency, consulting attorney and county liaison will discuss and determine whether the case should be referred for a rescission or whether a decision on legal action should be postponed until the reviewing agency has processed the exemption request.
- D. If the conviction is for a nonviolent felony, the reviewing agency, consulting attorney and county liaison will discuss and determine whether the case should be referred for a rescission, or whether a decision on legal action should be postponed until the county reviewing agency has processed the exemption request. The reviewing agency, consulting attorney, and county liaison should consider whether the individual is likely to obtain an exemption when making their assessment.
- E. For any crime involving violence or a crime against children or dependent adults, the reviewing agency, the consulting attorney and county liaison may decide not to proceed with a Temporary Suspension Order (TSO). In these situations, if no immediate risk to children in out-of-home care is identified, it would be appropriate to pursue an expedited rescission (see Section 125, Administrative Actions).

If the decision is to seek rescission, the individual will be allowed to remain in the home pending action on the expedited rescission. In these cases, an exemption is not processed by the reviewing agency and the individual receives his/her appeal rights through the rescission process.

If the decision is to postpone action until a decision is made on the exemption, the individual will be allowed to remain in the home pending action on the exemption.

(4) Exemptible Felony/Violent Misdemeanor – Associated Individual

Subsequent to a clearance or subsequent to an exemption if a decision has been made not to rescind existing exemption

- A. Prior to sending a written notification, make a reasonable attempt to contact the Resource Family, informing the Resource Family that the individual was convicted of a felony/serious misdemeanor crime and may not reside or be regularly present in the home unless an exemption is granted.

- B. Send separate and concurrent notices to the Resource Family and the individual at his/her current home address specifying the above. The notice to the individual must list his/her conviction(s).
- C. Use the Legal Consult to determine if a Temporary Suspension Order is appropriate if the individual will continue to be associated to the home.

(5) Non-Violent Misdemeanor – Associated Individual

If the conviction is for a crime that is not a felony and not a violent misdemeanor, send a letter to the resource family allowing the person to remain in the home, provided they request an exemption.

Concurrently, the affected individual must be sent a corresponding notice to his/her address on record informing him/her of the same. This letter must include a list of his/her conviction(s).

- A. If the Resource Family still wishes the individual to reside in the home, the affected individual or the Resource Family, in coordination with the affected individual, must request an exemption.

After receiving an exemption needed notice from the reviewing agency, if the Resource Family or affected individual chooses not to request an exemption and the individual no longer resides or is regularly present in the home, the affected individual has the right to request an exemption on his/her own behalf.

- B. The Resource Family or the individual may request an exemption by completing and returning the exemption needed notice, along with the items listed in the notice. An exemption request is not considered complete until all requested items listed in the notice have been submitted.
- C. If the exemption request is for a member of the Resource Family, and a complete exemption request is not submitted, the reviewing agency may deny the exemption.
- D. If the exemption request is for an associated individual other than a member of the Resource Family and a complete exemption request is not submitted, the reviewing agency may cease processing the exemption request and close the case.

124 APPEAL OF THE EXEMPTION DENIAL

A Resource Family, applicant, or individual who has received a Notice of Action (denial or rescission of approval, exemption denial or rescission) and/or order of exclusion is accorded the right to a state hearing and other due process rights. The hearing forum, Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) or State Hearings Division (SHD), will be determined at the mandatory legal consult prior to issuing the Notice of Action.

If a Respondent chooses to appeal an action for an application or exemption denial, he or she shall submit a written appeal to the County address listed in the Notice of Action within ninety (90) days from the date the notice was served on the respondent. If a Respondent chooses to appeal an action for an exemption rescission, exclusion order, or rescission of approval he or she shall submit a written appeal to the County or Department address listed in the Notice of Action or exclusion order within twenty-five (25) days from the date the notice was personally served on the respondent or within thirty (30) days if the notice was served on the respondent by mail. A Respondent may submit an appeal using an appeal form provided with the Notice of Action or exclusion order or may prepare his or her own written appeal. The reviewing agency shall notify the Department of Social Services, in writing, if it receives an appeal to a Notice of Action that included an order of exclusion.

If there are multiple actions included, the applicant, individual, or Resource Family may appeal in a single, unified appeal letter to the reviewing agency or Department, as applicable. The appeal must include the affected individual's mailing address and telephone number. If the reviewing agency or Department receives two such related appeals separately, the cases should be consolidated into a single, unified case with related case numbers (i.e., A case and B case). This will prevent any confusion regarding which Resource Family/applicant the exemption appeal is related to and will prevent conflicting outcomes.

A Resource Family or an applicant may appeal an exemption denial or rescission on behalf of the affected individual or an individual may appeal an exemption denial or rescission on his/her own behalf. If an individual is no longer residing or regularly present in the applicant or resource family home, he/she is afforded a separate hearing. If after an appeal is filed the exemption matter and related resource family approval matter proceeds to a hearing, the individual who is the subject of the exemption decision must waive their privacy rights regarding their criminal history in order to consolidate the matters into one hearing. Otherwise, separate hearings must be held. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) or attorney should address this issue at the prehearing conference.

NOTE: An individual is still associated to an applicant or Resource Family while an administrative action is pending. Do not send an NLI to DOJ until the time for appeal or set aside have lapsed or the case has been closed as applicable following a final decision and order.

125 ADMINISTRATIVE ACTIONS

An "administrative action" means an action or decision by the county or Department that triggers due process rights, namely, the right to receive an adequate notice that meets legal sufficiency requirements, the right to appeal, and the right to a hearing.

The following is a list of actions which may be considered by the reviewing agency based on the background assessment results. The type of action taken is determined at a legal consult and is based on the risk or threat posed by the conviction or conduct to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent in out-of-home care.

NOTE: If the reviewing agency has possession of evidence sufficient to take one of the following administrative action, e.g. a prior administrative action, the reviewing agency may immediately schedule a legal consult and need not wait until all components of the comprehensive assessment are complete.

1. Exemption Denial/Rescission (see section 121, Notification of the Exemption Decision)

2. RFA Application Denial

If an applicant was convicted of a non-exemptible crime or denied an exemption for an exemptible crime, the RFA application shall be denied. The application may also be denied if the applicant has a CACI history of child abuse or severe neglect or engaged in other conduct posing a risk to the health and safety of a child or nonminor dependent or other individual.

3. RFA Rescission

For background check purposes, an approval may be rescinded when a resource family parent has an exemption denied or rescinded or has engaged in prohibited conduct. An approval may also be rescinded if an adult that resides or is regularly present in the home has an exemption denied or rescinded or has engaged in prohibited conduct. The rescission does not become effective until after a Notice of Action has been served and there is no appeal, after the action is affirmed in a final decision and order, or pursuant to a stipulation, waiver and order.

An expedited rescission is sought when a serious situation exists that does not constitute an immediate health or safety risk, but that requires quick action by the county. A worker should monitor the home closely while an expedited rescission is pending and continue to assess whether it is necessary to upgrade the action to a Temporary Suspension Order (TSO). The case summary in the Statement of Facts must clearly explain why an expedited rescission is requested and that the case was discussed with the consulting attorney.

4. Temporary Suspension Order (TSO)

A Temporary Suspension Order (TSO) suspends the resource family approval prior to a hearing when urgent action is needed to protect a child from physical or mental abuse, abandonment, or any other substantial threat to health or safety. A TSO should result in the immediate removal of children or nonminor dependents in care.

The reviewing agency shall serve the resource family with the TSO with a notice of action, and if the matter is to be heard before the Office of Administrative Hearings, an accusation. The temporary suspension order shall list the effective date on the order.

5. Exclusion

An exclusion action against an individual must be taken by the Department and is generally taken only for the most serious conduct. If the reviewing agency is aware of the need for an RFA exclusion action, it must notify the Department as soon as it becomes aware. The purpose of the exclusion is to remove the individual from presence in any resource family home or from employment in, presence in, and contact with clients of any facility licensed by the department or certified by a licensed foster family agency, and from holding the position of member of the board of directors, executive director, or officer of the licensee of any facility licensed by the department. If the individual resides in a resource family home, then the approval must be rescinded and the rescission action should be joined with the exclusion action.

In rare situations the department may issue an exclusion order requiring the immediate removal of an individual when in the opinion of the department, the action is necessary to protect a child or nonminor dependent from physical or mental abuse, abandonment, or any other substantial threat to their health or safety. An immediate exclusion may be necessary if the individual is still living in the home and the placing agency is unable or unwilling to remove children in the home, and a TSO will not be effective to protect children in the home.

An “exclusion action” is to be distinguished from removal from the home pending a criminal record exemption decision. The fact that someone in the resource family home has been arrested or convicted of a crime does not authorize a reviewing agency to order the individual’s removal from the home absent an exclusion order (see section 123, Arrests and Convictions – Subsequent to Clearance or Exemption). An exclusion order has a lifetime effect and is effective in Department licensed facilities as well as resource family homes, unless the individual successfully petitions the Department for reinstatement. In contrast, an exclusion from presence in any resource family home that results from a denied or rescinded exemption only applies until the individual is granted an exemption.

Note: If the Department seeks to exclude an individual from a resource family home, an exclusion order shall be served with the Notice of Action.

126 RECORD RETENTION AND STORAGE

a. Retention Period

The reviewing agency shall retain all records related to currently approved resource families. Records shall also be securely maintained for at least three years following the date of an application withdrawal or denial, rescission of approval, criminal record exemption denial or rescission, exclusion, or surrender of approval. If there was an administrative action related to a denial, rescission, or exclusion, the time period to maintain the file shall begin on the date that a final decision and order is issued. Records shall be stored in a confidential section of the Resource Family file.

b. Subsequent Arrest Notifications and No Longer Interested (NLI)

When a reviewing agency learns that an individual does not reside or is not regularly present in a resource family home, the subsequent arrest notification should remain active until there is a determination that the individual does not intend to return to the home. Use a case-by-case evaluation to determine if the individual does not intend to return to the home. Once such a determination is made, immediately send the NLI to the DOJ.

When an applicant withdraws, immediately send the NLI to DOJ. Also send the NLI immediately when, following the conclusion of the appeal process, an administrative action results in a denial or rescission.

APPENDIX

Temporary (Emergency) Placement Protocol

PLEASE NOTE: CLETS and live scan fingerprint checks shall not be conducted to screen potential RFA applicants and/or dissuade a relative/NREFM from applying as a Resource Family. These checks cannot be completed other than in the circumstances outlined below.

When a child has been taken into custody, or when the sudden unavailability of a foster caregiver requires a change in placement for a dependent child, a relative/NREFM may request temporary (i.e., emergency) placement of the child. The County has the discretion to place the child with that relative/NREFM prior to approval as a resource family in accordance with the process outlined in Welfare and Institutions Code (W&IC) section 361.4 and summarized as follows:

Conduct California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (CLETS) and child abuse checks.

- If the CLETS information indicates that the person has been convicted of an exemptible crime under Section 1522 of the Health and Safety Code, the child may be placed in the home on an emergency basis only after the placement has been approved by the deputy director or director of the county welfare or probation department or his or her designee. However, a child may not be placed if CLETS indicates a conviction for misdemeanor Penal Code (PC) sections 261.5, 314, or 368, notwithstanding the fact that these are exemptible crimes.
- If the CLETS information indicates the person was arrested for a serious crime under subdivision (e) of Section 1522 of the Health and Safety Code, the child shall not be placed on an emergency basis until an investigation has been completed and the deputy director or director of the county welfare or probation department or his or her designee, and the court, have considered the investigation results and approved the placement.
- If the CLETS information indicates that the person has been convicted of a non-exemptible crime under Section 1522 of the Health and Safety Code, the child shall not be placed in the home on an emergency basis.

IMPORTANT: A criminal record exemption shall not be granted based on CLETS results. An emergency placement as described above does not mean that an individual has received an exemption. Exemptions are not a part of emergency placements. Live scan fingerprint-based criminal history information is necessary to determine if the individual needs an exemption prior to Resource Family approval.

➤ If an Emergency Placement is Made

- 1) A live scan fingerprint check shall be conducted within 5 business days following an emergency placement or within 10 calendar days of the CLETS check, whichever occurs sooner, on all adults subject to RFA background check requirements.
- 2) The live scan fingerprint check triggers the RFA process. When fingerprints are submitted under the Authorized Applicant Type: RESRCE FAM PER 16519 WI on the

RESOURCE FAMILY APPROVAL: BACKGROUND ASSESSMENT GUIDE

BCIA 8016 Request for Live Scan Service form, the individual is submitting his or her fingerprints as an applicant for Resource Family Approval (RFA).

- 3) The County making the emergency placement shall provide the caregiver with the RFA 01A RFA Application. The County completing the RFA process shall arrange to receive this application from the applicant within 5 business days of placement or within 10 calendar days of the CLETS check, whichever occurs sooner, pursuant to RFA Written Directives (WDs) section 4-08.
- 4) If the results of the live scan fingerprint check (i.e., CORI or rap sheet) reveal any conviction(s) for an exemptible crime(s) (individuals with a non-exemptible conviction are ineligible for an exemption), the exemption process should be initiated as soon as possible. Exemptions may be granted through the simplified exemption process based solely on the information contained in the rap sheet and self-disclosure form, while the standard exemption process requires the individual to request an exemption in response to an Exemption Needed Notification letter.
 - The standard exemption process is required to evaluate whether the county may grant an exemption based on substantial and convincing evidence that the individual is of present good character, as well as to provide adequate due process if the exemption request has been denied.
- 5) A denial letter (i.e., NOA) must be sent to the individual. The denial letter (RFA 09B) must list the criminal history upon which the denial is based. If the denial will result in a RFA application denial, a NOA for application denial (RFA 09) must also be sent to the applicant. It is considered best practice to send written notification when the county grants an exemption, as well.

➤ If No Emergency Placement is Made

- 1) If no placement has been made on an emergency basis, the County must be in receipt of the RFA 01A RFA Application prior to requiring that an individual submit to the live scan fingerprint check.
 - Any individual who has submitted to the live scan fingerprint check is entitled to due process, including written notification of the results (i.e. notice of exemption needed letter or non-exemptible conviction notification, if applicable), a copy of his or her rap sheet, and the right to appeal a denial.
- 2) If the results of the live scan fingerprint check (i.e., CORI or rap sheet) reveals any conviction(s) for an exemptible crime(s) (individuals with a non-exemptible conviction are ineligible for an exemption), the exemption process should be initiated as soon as possible. Exemptions may be granted through the simplified exemption process based solely on the information contained in the rap sheet and self-disclosure form, while the standard exemption process requires the individual to request an exemption in response to an Exemption Needed Notification letter.
 - The standard exemption process is required to evaluate whether the county may grant an exemption based on substantial and convincing evidence that the individual is of present good character and to provide adequate due process if the exemption request has been denied.
 - A denial letter (i.e., NOA) must be sent to the individual. The denial letter (RFA 09B) must list the criminal history upon which the denial is based. If the denial will result in a RFA application denial, a NOA for application denial (RFA 09) must also be sent to the applicant. It is considered best practice to send written notification when the county grants an exemption, as well.

- A county may not close an individual's file, or require that an applicant withdraw their RFA application, without affording them their due process rights, namely, written notice of any adverse action and of the right to appeal the denial of a criminal record exemption and/or RFA application.
- 3) If the results of the live scan fingerprint check (i.e., CORI or rap sheet) reveal any convictions for a non-exemptible crime, a NOA for exemption denial (RFA 09B) must be sent to the individual identifying the relevant non-exemptible conviction(s) along with a copy of the full rap sheet received from DOJ. If the exemption denial will result in an RFA application denial, a NOA for application denial (RFA 09) must also be sent to the applicant but should not include details of the individual's criminal history.
- A county may not close an individual's file, or require that an applicant withdraw their RFA application, without affording them their due process rights, namely, written notice of any adverse action and of the right to appeal the denial of a criminal record exemption and/or RFA application.

NOTE: Placement does not guarantee approval as a resource family.
